European Commission
Directorate-General for Economic and Financial Affairs
Directorate-General for Employment, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities

Short time working arrangements as response to cyclical fluctuations

by Alfonso Arpaia *, Nicola Curci , Eric Meyermans , Jörg Peschner  and Fabiana Pierini ******

* European Commission (DG Economic and Financial Affairs) and IZA
 European Commission (DG Economic and Financial Affairs) and Italy's Ministry of Economy and Finance
 European Commission (DG Employment, Social Affairs and Equal Opportunities)
* European Commission (DG Economic and Financial Affairs)

EUROPEAN ECONOMY Occasional Papers No. 64

ULB Darmstadt
17792806

Table of contents

Executive Summary 5

1. The rationale of short-time work 11

2. STWA as a component of the social safety net 13

3. The complementarity between public STWA and EPL 16

4. The effectiveness of STWA: review of the empirical evidence 18

5. Institutional characteristics of short-time work schemes 21

6. Main changes in response to the crisis 33

7. The role of STW during the crisis: empirical evidence 37

References 45

ANNEX 47

Description of short-time working schemes by country 47