
Paying with Plastic

The Digital Revolution in Buying and Borrowing

David S. Evans

Richard Schmalensee

The MIT Press
Cambridge, Massachusetts
London, England

Contents

Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
1 Plastic Cards	1
The Star	7
Star Performance	7
The Main Characters	10
Other Members of the Cast	11
Supporting Roles	13
The Foreign Cast	14
The Thirteen Acts	15
2 From Sea Shells to Electrons	19
What Is Money?	19
Money in America	22
Cash, Check, or Charge?	25
Debit or Credit?	26
The Role of Payment Cards in the U.S. Economy	30
3 A Land of Local Banks, Awash in Paper Checks	37
Banking in America	38
Banks, Nonbanks, and Payment Cards	47
4 The Rise of Payment Cards	61
Diners Club and the Birth of the Payment Card	62
The Infancy of the Card Associations	65
Early Policy Issues: Duality and Usury	69
The 1980s Spending and Debt Spree	73

	The 1990s and the New Millenium	75
	Risk, Innovation, and Investment	77
5	From Gourmets to the Masses	85
	The Growth and Diffusion of Credit Cards in the American Economy	86
	Payment Cards and the Transactions Demand for Money	91
	Credit Cards and Liquidity Constraints	94
	Credit Cards and Entrepreneurship	100
	But Are Payment Cards Really a Good Deal?	107
6	Everywhere You Want to Be, Not Everywhere They Want to Be	111
	Who Are the Players?	112
	Honor All Cards	119
	The Economics of Merchant Acceptance	121
	More and More Merchants Take Payment Cards	127
7	Chickens, Eggs, and Other Economic Conundrums	137
	Product Differentiation	138
	Economics of Network Industries	149
	Some Economics of Joint Ventures	153
	Interdependent Pricing	163
8	System Wars	169
	Who Are the Warriors?	173
	The Weapons of War	175
	The Rise and Decline of American Express Cards	177
	The Bankcard Battles	193
9	Issuer Brawls	207
	Who Are the Players?	207
	Product Differentiation and Market Segmentation	210
	Competitive Strategies	216
	Market Structure	224
	Market Performance	235
	Consolidation in Banking and Cards	244
10	Puzzles and Paradoxes	247
	High and Sticky Interest Rates	248

The Myth of Exorbitant Profits	251
AT&T, GM, and Credit Card Prices	257
11 The Antitrust Wars	263
Sleeping with the Enemy: Worthen	267
Good Fix: NaBanco	275
Someone's Knocking at My Door: MountainWest	281
Leveling the Battlefield	288
12 Debit Takes Off (Finally)	297
Awkward Growth, Complexity, and Confusion	297
The Rise of ATMs	302
The Growth of PIN Pad Merchants	306
The Associations Finally Get It Right	310
Which Came First?	315
The Future of Debit Cards	317
13 And They Don't Take Cash	321
Sources and Notes	327
Selected Bibliography	349
Index	361