

TOWARD A THEORY OF PSYCHOLOGICAL DEVELOPMENT

---

"... the Modgils, after having accomplished a prodigious work of painstaking scholarship in the 1976 eight-volume series 'Piagetian Research', a work for which so many researchers all over the world are for ever thankful to them, they now have been able to gather an ensemble of original papers reflecting very exactly the image that English-speaking researchers have formed of Piagetian psychological studies."

Bärbel Inhelder

---

Edited by

SOHAN and CELIA MODGIL

Foreword by

BÄRBEL INHELDER

NFER Publishing Company

Contents

---

FOREWORD
Bärbel Inhelder	13
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	15
PART I.
INTRODUCTION
1. Toward a Comprehensive Theory of Human Development within the Piagetian Framework	19
Sohan and Celia Modgil
PART II:
COGNITIVE – AFFECTIVE
2. Affectivity and Values in Piaget	35
Wolfe Mays
3. The Hunting of the Self: Toward a Genetic Affectology	61
Harley C. Shands
4. Equilibration of Structures in Psychotherapy	91
Melvin L. Weiner
5. The Development of Reason	113
Richard Peters
6. Affective and Cognitive Development: The Psyche and Piaget	147
Richard Kimball
PART III:
COGNITIVE – SOCIAL
7. Experience and Society	201
Beryl A. Geber and Paul Webley

- |                                                                                                     |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 8. The Development of Social Cognition: Definition and LocationW. D. L. Barker and L. J. Newson | 233 |
| 9. The Evolving Systems Approach to CreativityHoward E. Gruber                                  | 269 |

PART IV:*COGNITIVE – MORAL

- |                                                                                            |     |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 10. Moral Judgment and Moral Psychology: Piaget, Kohlbergand BeyondPeter Tomlinson | 303 |
| 11. Piaget and the Juvenile Justice SystemJune B. Pimm                                 | 367 |
| 12. Humanism and the Piagetian FrameworkJames Hemming                                  | 391 |

PART V:*ABSTRACT MODELS OF PSYCHOLOGICAL EXPLANATION

- |                                                                       |     |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 13. Mathematical Models of Piagetian PsychologyWilliam C. Hoffman | 421 |
| 14. Classifiers and Cognitive DevelopmentDavid Dirlam             | 465 |

PART VI:*LONGITUDINAL AND CROSS-CULTURAL RESEARCH

- |                                                                                                            |     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 15. Longitudinal Studies and Piaget's TheoryJohn Versey                                                | 501 |
| 16. Implications of Cross-Cultural Piagetian Research for CognitiveDevelopmental Theory.Lita Furby | 541 |

PART VII:*EDUCATION AND CURRICULUM

- |                                                                                                      |     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 17. The Generation of Educational Practice from DevelopmentalTheoryFrank B. Murray           | 567 |
| 18. The Relationship between Developmental Level and the Qualityof School LearningJohn Biggs | 591 |
| 19. School Mathematics and Stages of DevelopmentKevin Collis                                     | 635 |

20. Teaching Students to Control Variables: Some Investigations Using Free Choice Experiences Marcia C. Linn	673
21. Piaget and Science Education Michael Shayer	699
22. Child Art Robert Schirrmacher	733
PART VIII:
CONCLUSIONS
23. (a) Commentary J. Jacques Vonèche	765
(b) Towards a Developmental Theory J. Jacques Vonèche	780
(c) Further Toward a Comprehensive Theory of Human Development? Sohan and Celia Modgil	789
AUTHOR INDEX	795
CONTRIBUTORS' BIOGRAPHIES	809