

The emotional experience of learning and teaching

Isca Salzberger-Wittenberg

Gianna Henry

Elsie Osborne

Technische Hochschule Darmstadt
Fachbereich 3
Institut für Psychologie
Steubenplatz 12, 6100 Darmstadt

7

Inv.-Nr. 9/07855

Routledge & Kegan Paul

London, Boston, Melbourne and Henley

Contents

	Introduction	ix
Part I	Beginnings
	I. Salzberger-Wittenberg
1	Hopeful and fearful expectations	3
	The roots in infancy	7
	Different kinds of hopes and fears	9
	Anxieties about feeling lost	9
	Hopes and fears in relation to teacher and institution	11
	Hopes and fears in relation to the peer-group	13
	External and internal factors which heighten stress	14
	Those at risk on the point of transition	14
	Factors in present relating to degree of stress	15
	Interaction of external and internal factors: brief case illustrations	16
	Beginning school	16
	Difficulties arising from joining late	17
	Difficulties of a first-year university student	18
Part II	Learning to understand the nature of relationships
	I. Salzberger-Wittenberg
2	Aspects of the student's relationship to the teacher	23
	Introduction	23
	The student's expectations of the teacher	25
	The teacher as the source of knowledge and wisdom	25

	The teacher as provider and comforter	26
	The teacher as an object of admiration and envy	29
	The teacher as a judge	30
	The teacher as an authority figure	31
	Transference	32
	The concept of the transference	32
	The continuous conflict between love and hate	34
	Transference in the learning situation	35
3	Aspects of the teacher's relationship to the student	39
	Introduction	39
	The teacher's transference	40
	Aspirations of the teacher	41
	To pass on knowledge and skills	41
	To enable students to succeed	42
	To foster personal development	43
	To befriend students	44
	Fears of the teacher	46
	Fear of criticism	46
	Fear of hostility	46
	Fear of losing control	47
	Problems of which the teacher may be unaware	48
	Hostility towards parents	48
	Rivalry with parents	49
	Identification with childish desires	50
	Identification with destructive aspects of the students	51
	Rivalry and envy of younger siblings	51
4	Emotional aspects of learning	53
	Learning and mental pain	53
	The containment of pain and learning from experience	58
	Helpful interactions	61
	Attention and observation	61
	Openness and receptiveness	62
	Having an emotional experience	62
	Thinking about the experience	63
	Verbal or non-verbal communication or action	63
	Unhelpful interactions	63
	Non-attentiveness	63
	Excessive permissiveness	64
	Reacting	64
	Projection of pain into the dependent person	65

The basis of learning in infancy	65
Infantile roots of learning difficulties	70
Disturbances in taking in knowledge	72
Difficulties in digesting and retaining knowledge	74
Problems related to producing work	76

Part III Understanding the individual child in the classroom G. Henry

5	Idealised relationships	81
	Unreasonable demands	81
	Idealisation of teacher and self	85
	Attempts at polarisation	87
	Idealisation and denigration	89
	Comfort or development	90
6	Denigratory relationships	92
	Intolerance of dependency	92
	The gang as a protection against dependency	95
	Envy as one of the driving forces in denigration	99
7	Helpful relationships	102
	The hurtful child	102
	The tyrant or slave child	105
	The empty child	107
	The patchwork child	109

Part IV Work with families and professional colleagues E. Osborne

8	The teacher's relationships with the pupils' families	113
	The range of the problem	113
	The pursuit of facts	116
	Co-operation or collusion?	118
	Joining forces against a parent	119
	Two sides of the picture	121
	Influence of home versus school	122

Contents

9	The teacher's relationship with other professional workers	124
	Special education	124
	Medical and social services	125
	The child guidance team	126
	When to refer for specialist psychological help	126
	Assessment at school	127
	Making contact with a school	128
	Rivalry	129
	Anxieties about confidentiality	131
	Labelling	132
	Parents, school and clinic working together	133
	Co-operation between teaching staff	134
	The school as mirrored in the classroom	135
Part V	Endings
	I. Salzberger-Wittenberg
10	Different kinds of endings	139
	Introduction	139
	Transfer to another teacher	139
	Conflicting emotions at separation	141
	Holidays	144
	Breaking up	145
	Excitement and depression	145
	Destructive behaviour	146
	Post-holiday behaviour and feelings	147
	The end of a course of education	148
	The students' feelings at ending	149
	Loss of opportunity	149
	Doubts and worries about one's adequacy	150
	Jealousy and envy	151
	The teacher's feelings at ending	152
	Loss of opportunity	152
	Fear of wasted effort	152
	Jealousy and envy	153
	Loss of a relationship	153
	Retaining something of value	153
	 Further reading	 155