

Anglistentag
2008 Tübingen

Proceedings

edited by

Lars Eckstein
Christoph Reinfandt

Contents

Christoph Reinfandt (Tübingen)
Preface

Section I: The Religious Turn in Literary and Cultural Studies

Anton Kirchofer (Oldenburg) The Religious Turn in Literary and Cultural Studies: Introduction	3
Gauri Viswanathan (New York) Secularism, Literature, and Heterodoxy	9
Kai Merten (Kiel) 'Our Nature Angels May Weigh and Fathom': Towards an Angelic Anthropology in British Romanticism	25
Miriam Wallraven (Giessen) Who's Afraid of Witches, Goddesses, and Women Occultists? The Importance of a 'Spiritual and Occult Turn' in Connection with Gender for Literary and Cultural Studies	35
Peter Schneck (Osnabrück) "Mysterium tremendum et fascinans": Don DeLillo, Rudolf Otto and the Search for Numinous Experience	45
Susanne Gruss (Erlangen) "The Flesh Made Word": Sensuous Religion in the Works of Michèle Roberts	57
Enno Ruge (Munich) Of Hollow-Hearted Men and Hypocrites: The Religious Turn and the Study of Early Modern Puritanism	67
Anne-Julia Zwierlein (Regensburg) "Redeeming Eve"? The 'Religious Turn' and Early Modern Gender Studies	77
Mark Berninger (Mainz) Modern Miltonicks – 20th Century Appropriations of Milton and the Religious Turn	91

Section II: Borders and Transitions in Language, Literature and Culture

Andrew James Johnston (Berlin) and Hans Sauer (Munich) Borders and Transitions: Introduction	107
--	-----

Allen J. Frantzen (Chicago)	Religious Tolerance in Old and Middle English Sources	115
Andrew James Johnston (Berlin)	Beowulf and the Remains of Imperial Rome: Archaeology, Legendary History and the Problems of Periodisation	127
Ferdinand von Mengden (Hamburg)	What Remains of 1066?	137
Claudia Olk (Berlin)	Performing Transition – Word and Image in the York Cycle	149
Nicole Meier (Bonn)	Protestant Censorship in 16th-Century Scottish Manuscripts: the Case of Walter Kennedy's "Leif luve, my luve, no langar it lyk"	159
Gabriela Schmidt (München)	Elizabethan Translation – Literature at the Limits: Thomas Wilson's Demosthenes and John Harington's Orlando Furioso	167
Ralf Haekel (Göttingen)	Romantic Constructions of Poetry – Poetic Constructions of Romanticism	179
Ursula Lenker (Eichstätt)	Language Divides – The Long 19th Century from a Linguistic Perspective	189
Section III: Travelling Literatures
Sissy Helff (Frankfurt/Main), Cecile Sandten (Chemnitz) and Axel Stähler (Canterbury)	Travelling Literatures: Introduction	207
Susan Arndt (Frankfurt)	Myths and Masks of 'Travelling': Colonial Migration and Slavery in Shakespeare's Othello , The Sonnets and The Tempest	213
Christian Huck (Erlangen)	Seeing Other People? Travel, Writing and the Senses	227
Betsy van Schlun (Bielefeld)	Journeys of the Mind	239
Christiane Schlote (Berne)	Memories of Mesopotamia: Agatha Christie's Archaeological Travel Writing	251
Elisabeth Bekers (Brussels, VUB)	The Lives and Strange Surprising Adventures of Classic and Contemporary Travellers in Fiction in English	267
Gerhard Stilz (Tübingen)	Indigenes, Migrants and Others – A Selfish Inquest	279

Section IV: Teaching English Literatures: From Theory to Practice (and Back)

Ulrike Erichsen (Frankfurt) and Susanne Reichl (Vienna) Teaching English Literatures: From Theory to Practice (and Back): Introduction	293
Peter Barry (Aberystwyth) Continuing Literary Theory	297
Engelbert Thaler (Freiburg) Teaching Literature via Web 2.0	309
Carola Surkamp (Göttingen) Action- and Production-Oriented Methods in Literature Courses at University: Theoretical Basis and Practical Benefits	317
Sarah Heinz (Passau) Teaching Autobiography: The Reintegration of Theory and Practice through Creative Writing	327
Michael C. Prusse (Zürich) Teaching to Read and Reading to Teach: English Literature in Teacher Education	335
Pascal Nicklas (Leipzig) Teaching English in English not Being English	347

Section V: Patterns in Language

Ute Römer (Ann Arbor) and Rainer Schulze (Hanover) Patterns in Language: An Introduction	359
Douglas Biber (Flagstaff) A Corpus-Driven Approach to Formulaic Language in English: Extending the Construct of Lexical Bundle	367
Thomas Herbst (Erlangen) Patterns in Syntax, Lexicography and Corpus Linguistics	379
Rolf Kreyer (Bonn) Patterns of Language Use from a Network Perspective	391
Lieselotte Anderwald (Kiel) and Benedikt Szmrecsanyi (Freiburg) Why Grammar Is Real: A Usage-Based Perspective on Patterns	403
Sebastian Hoffmann (Lancaster) and Joybrato Mukherjee (Giessen) Patterns Across Varieties: Verb-Complementational Profiles of Old and New Englishes	415
Elke Gehweiler (Berlin) Mere mortals, bare essentials : A Corpus-Based Analysis of Two Downtoners	425

Sandra Mollin (Augsburg)
Collocations as Patterns of Word Association: A Psycholinguistic Approach to Phraseology	437
Eva-Maria Graf (Klagenfurt) and Susanne Handl (München)
Collocations in Language Acquisition: The Emergence of Patterns	447
Section VI: Varia
Christina Sanchez-Stockhammer (Erlangen)
What Makes a Word Dissociated? A Contrastive Study of the English and German Vocabulary	459
Christoph Schubert (Würzburg)
Punchlines in Context: Cooperation and Relevance as Key Issues in Humour Studies	471
Jochen Petzold (Freiburg)
"The Needlework of War-time": The South African War in Magazines for Young Readers	481
Christina Wald (Augsburg)
"This is my body": Transubstantiation, Bodily Transformation and Disguise in Early Modern Prose Fiction	491
Christoph Henke (Augsburg)
Pernicious Reason and Good Sense: Ethics and Common Sense in Bernard Mandeville's Fable of the Bees and Samuel Johnson's Writings	507
Till Kinzel (Braunschweig)
Negotiating Indo-Afro-Canadian Identities in the Fiction of M. G. Vassanji	523