

International Institute for Labour Studies

The promise and perils of participatory policy making

Lucio Baccaro

Konstantinos Papadakis

Table of contents

Preface	vii
1. Introduction	1
2. An Outline of Deliberative Public Administration Theory	5
3. Habermasian Views on Deliberation and Civil Society	9
4. The Evolution of Participatory Governance in South Africa	15
a) Participatory Economic Policy: The Case of NEDLAC	17
b) Participatory Policy-Making and Child Labour	26
c) SANAC and the Fight Against HIV-AIDS	33
5. Building Communicative Power: A Discussion of Empirical Findings	43
6. Concluding Remarks	49
References	53
List of Interviewees	63