

THE AUDIT OF WAR

The Illusion & Reality of Britain as a Great Nation

CORRELLI BARNETT

M
MACMILLAN

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Author's Preface	xi
Prologue	1
Part I Dreams and Illusions
1. The Dream of New Jerusalem	11
2. The Illusion of Limitless Possibility	38
Part II Reality – The Industrial Machine
3. 'The Prospect Is Bleak': 1943–45	55
4. An Industrial Worst Case: Coal	63
5. 'In Great Need of Modernisation': Steel	87
6. 'The Fossilisation of Inefficiency': Shipbuilding	107
7. A Mass Industry Improvised: Aircraft 1936–39	125
8. New Technology and Old Failings: Aircraft 1939–44	143
9. The Dependence on America: Radar and Much Else	159
Part III Reality – The Human Resources
10. The Legacy of the Industrial Revolution	187
11. Education for Industrial Decline	201
Part IV The Limits of the Possible
12. New Jerusalem or Economic Miracle?	237
13. Tinkering as Industrial Strategy	265
14. The Lost Victory	276
References	305
Bibliography	343
Index	355