

Turun yliopiston julkaisuja
Annales Universitatis Turkuensis

SARJA-SER. B OSA-TOM. 173

SEA, GOLD AND SUGARCANE

ATTRACTION VERSUS DISTANCE

Finns in Australia
1851—1947

by Olavi Koivukangas

Turun yliopisto
Turku, Finland, 1986

Contents

	Page
Acknowledgements	9
Abbreviations	12
I Introduction	13
1 Earlier Investigations	13
2 Problems for Investigation	15
3 Key Concepts	18
4 Sources and Methods of Investigation	21
(1) Sources Originating within Australia	21
(2) Source Materials in Finland	30
(3) Materials from Other Countries	33
(4) Evaluation of the Source Material	34
(5) Research Methods	34
5 Finnish Emigration in the Context of the Wider European Overseas Migration	36
6 Long-Distance Settlement: Europeans in Australia	43
(1) The Expansion of the European World: the Impact of the Great Explorations	43
(2) The Impingement of Australia on the European Consciousness	44
(3) From Penal Colony to Welfare State	46
II The Attraction of Australia versus the Barrier of Distance: Factors Regulating Finnish Migration to Australia, 1851—1947	55
1 Finns in Australia Prior to the 1851 Gold Rush	55
2 The Pull of the Australian Gold Rush, 1851—69	64
3 Overall Finnish Migration to Australia, 1851—92	72
4 Matti Kurikka and 'Kalevan Kansa': the Utopian Project in Queensland, 1899—1900	83
(1) Introduction	83
(2) The Origins of Matti Kurikka's 'Kalevan Kansa' Colony	86
(3) The Reasons for the Failure of 'Kalevan Kansa'	92
(4) The Finnish Settlement at Nambour	93

5 The Impact of Australian Economic Expansion on Immigration, 1893—1920	96
6 Finnish Migration to Australia, 1921—47	106
(1) Introduction	106
(2) The Context of Finnish Migration to Australia, 1921—24	109
(3) The Role of Nestori Karhula	114
(4) The Ostrobothnian Migration to the Cane Fields of Northern Queensland	118
(5) The Depression, 1930—34	125
(6) The Revival of Migration, 1935—39	127
(7) The Second World War	129
(8) Finnish Migration to Australia, in Figures 1921—47	131
(9) Areas of Origin in Finland and Routes Used	134
(10) The Australian Alternative	137
III The Return to Finland	139
IV Seaman Migration	147
1 Introduction	147
2 The Context of Ship Desertion	151
3 Individual Deserters	155
4 Group Desertion	158
5 From the Seaboard to the Interior	162
6 Migration Before the Mast: The Sailing Ships of Åland and Seaman Migration, 1919—39	164
7 Seaman Migration: Conclusions	168
V The Consolidation of Finnish Settlement	171
1 Introduction	171
2 Finnish Settlement in New South Wales	181
(1) Introduction	181
(2) Finnish Settlement in the Ports of New South Wales	183
(3) Finnish Group Settlement in New South Wales	186
3 Finnish Settlement in Victoria	193
4 Finnish Settlement in Tasmania	203
5 Finnish Settlement in South Australia	209
6 Finnish Settlement in Western Australia	217
(1) Introduction	217
(2) 'Russian Jack' and the Finns on the Gold Fields	220
(3) Finnish Settlers in Western Australia	223
7 Finnish Settlement in Queensland	230
(1) Introduction	230
(2) Pioneer Settlers in Queensland from the 1860s	233
(3) Brisbane: the Main Road into Queensland	233
(4) The Establishment of the Finnish Colony at Nambour	237
(5) The Finnish Banana Planters of Gympie and Wolvi	242
(6) The Finnish Sugar Planters of Long Pocket	244
(7) Cairns: the Finnish Bridgehead in the North	250

(8) The Depression: From the Cane Fields to Road Works on the Atherton Tableland	255
(9) The Finnish Tobacco Farmers of Mareeba	258
(10) The Finnish Colony at Tully	260
(11) The Mount Isa Mines: a Finnish Colony in the Outback	264
(12) Summary: Finnish Settlement in Queensland	268
8 Finnish Settlement in the Northern Territory	269
9 Finns in Australian New Guinea and Other Islands in the Region	271
10 Overall Summary: Finnish Settlement in Australia, 1851—1947	273
VI Adaptation	275
1 Introduction	275
2 Gender and Age Structure	277
3 Marital Structure	279
4 Mortality	282
5 Finnish Women in Australia	283
6 The Second Generation	285
7 Knowledge of English	287
8 Relations with the Host Population and with Other Ethnic Groups	289
9 Changing Nationality	295
10 The Preservation of Finnishness	297
VII Ethnic Organization in Adjustment and in the Maintenance of Ethnicity ..	301
1 Introduction	301
2 The Erakko Society in Nambour, 1902—04	302
3 The Queensland Finnish Heimo Society in Brisbane, 1914—48	308
4 Finnish Associations in Melbourne	312
5 Finnish Associations in Sydney	313
6 Finnish Associations in Rural Queensland
(1) The Suomi Society in Cairns	315
(2) The Suomi Athletic Club in Brisbane	316
(3) The Suomi Society in Tully	319
(4) The Yritys Gymnastics and Sports Club in Long Pocket	321
(5) The Heimo Society in Mount Isa	322
7 The 1924 Scheme for a Pan-Australian Finnish Federation	323
VIII Links with Finland	327
1 Introduction	327
2 The Finnish Seamen's Mission, 1916—	327
3 The Magazine Suomi , 1926—	335
4 The Finnish Consulate, 1918—41	343
IX Conclusions: Patterns of Migration, Settlement and Adaptation	347
1 Finnish Migration to Australia, 1851—1947	347
2 Finnish Settlement in Australia: From Isolation to Chain Settlement	353
3 The Central Role of Ethnic Concentration in the Adaptation Process	359

4 Australian Immigration in Relation to the Overall Pattern of Finnish Migration to the Southern Hemisphere	362
5 Concluding Remarks	365
Bibliography	367
Index of Names	393