

Urban Confrontations in Literature and Social Science, 1848–2001

European Contexts, American Evolutions

EDWARD J. AHEARN

Brown University, USA

ASHGATE

Contents

Permissions	vii
Acknowledgments	ix

Introduction: Breaking the Glass	1
----------------------------------	---

I THE HEROISM OF MODERN LIFE? BAUDELAIRE, BRECHT AND THE FOUNDERS OF URBAN SOCIOLOGY

1	City Visions of the Poet and Social Scientist	9
2	“Let’s Beat Up the Poor!”: Baudelaire on Urban Conflict and the Failure of Policy	27
3	In the Jungle of Brecht’s Cities	49

II CHICAGO BLACK AND WHITE: IMMIGRATION AND RACE IN NATIVE SON AND *THE ADVENTURES OF AUGIE MARCH

Introduction to Part II		67
4	The Native Son We Didn’t (and Still Don’t?) Want to See	75
5	Augie’s Immigrant Adventures	93

III POWER, GOVERNANCE AND THE STRUGGLE FOR HUMAN REALIZATION

Introduction to Part III		115
6	Bureaucracy and the Lone City Dweller: James Q. Wilson—and Michel Foucault—Meet Bartleby	121
7	Jazz and The Power Broker : Urban Tycoon versus the Real Lives of Ordinary Black People	137

vi	Urban Confrontations in Literature and Social Science, 1848–2001
8	Immigrant Women Writing Against the Urban Regime: The House on Mango Street and Bone	161
	Epilogue: DeLillo's Global City	181
	Bibliography	205
	Index	225