

Key Qualifications in Work and Education

Edited by

Wim J. Nijhof

*University of Twente,
Enschede, The Netherlands*

and

Jan N. Streumer

*University of Twente,
Enschede, The Netherlands*

KLUWER ACADEMIC PUBLISHERS

DORDRECHT / BOSTON / LONDON

TABLE OF CONTENTS

---

1. WIM J. NIJHOF AND JAN N. STREUMER - THE DEMARCATION ISSUE : INTRODUCTION	11
Part 1: The meaning of key qualifications	17
2. WIM J. NIJHOF - QUALIFYING FOR THE FUTURE	19
2.1. The changing scene	20
2.2. Key qualifications, core competencies, and core problems	22
2.3. Classifications of (key) qualifications: validity and usefulness	27
2.3.1 Powerful skills	27
2.3.2 Hybrid skills	28
2.3.3 Core skills	30
2.3.4 Transferable skills	31
2.4. Toward a system of qualifications?	33
References	35
3. PER-ERIK ELLSTRÖM - THE MANY MEANINGS OF OCCUPATIONAL COMPETENCE AND QUALIFICATION	39
3.1. The concepts of occupational competence and qualification	40
3.2. Three views and five meanings of occupational competence	41
3.2.1 Competence as an attribute of the individual	41
3.2.2 Competence as job requirements	42
3.2.3 An interactive view: competence-in-use	43
3.3. An adaptation versus a developmental view of competence	44
3.4. Change-oriented human competence: cognition versus context	45
3.5. Creating a creative learning environment	47
3.6. Concluding remarks	48
References	49
4. BEN HÖVELS - QUALIFICATION AND LABOUR MARKETS: INSTITUTIONALISATION AND INDIVIDUALISATION	51
4.1. Qualification: clarification of the concept	51
4.1.1 Characteristic of persons: abilities	51
4.1.2 Linkages to labour market and work situation: an actor perspective	53
4.1.3 Dynamics of qualifications and environment	54
4.2. Qualification and sub-labour markets	55
4.3. Revival of key-qualifications	57
4.4. Concluding remarks	60
References	61
5. JOCHEN REULING - THE GERMAN 'BERUFSPRINZIP' AS A MODEL FOR REGULATING TRAINING CONTENT AND QUALIFICATION STANDARDS	63
5.1. What is meant by a 'Beruf'?	64
5.2. Correlations between qualification structure and initial vocational training	65
5.3. The principle of the 'Beruf' as a supra-company regulator of initial vocational training	66
5.4. Correlations between qualification structure and work organisation	68
5.5. Correlations between the 'Beruf'-principle, wage and salary structures and social legislation	69
5.6. Supporting external conditions	69
5.7. The 'Beruf'-principle, responsiveness of the vocational training system and demarcation lines	71
References	75

Part 2: Qualification systems and programmes	77
6. GEORGE COPA - THE DEMARCATION LINE IN FUNDING FOR SCHOOL-BASED VOCATIONAL EDUCATION AND TRAINING IN THE UNITED STATES	79
6.1 The School-Based Vocational Education Enterprise	79
6.2 Major Federal Initiatives	82
6.2.1 Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education and Applied Technology Act	83
6.2.2 Goals 2000	83
6.2.3 School-to-Work Opportunities Act	83
6.3 Funding of School-Based Vocational Education	84
6.4 Demarcation in Funding for School-Based Vocational Education	85
6.4.1 Interest Groups	85
6.4.2 General Funding Distribution	85
6.4.3 Considerations in Funding Distribution	86
6.5 Concluding Notes	87
6.5.1 Using a Theoretical Perspective	87
6.5.2 Viewing Demarcation as a Practical Problem	87
References	88
7. TIM OATES - A CONVERGING SYSTEM? EXPLAINING DIFFERENCE IN THE ACADEMIC AND VOCATIONAL TRACKS IN ENGLAND	91
7.1 Key factors for explaining difference	92
7.2. Key awards in the framework	94
7.2.1 GCSE (General Certificate of Education)	94
7.2.2 GCE A-level (Advanced Level) and AS (Advanced Supplementary)	94
7.2.3 GNVQ (General National Vocational Qualification)	94
7.3. NVQs (National Vocational Qualifications)	95
7.4. Segmented control, intervention and innovation (factors 1, 2 and 4)	96
7.5. Horizontal and vertical integration (factors 4 and 5)	99
7.5.1 Contrasts in classifications of academic subject/vocational areas (factors 5 and 6)	99
7.6. Contrasts in learning and assessment models (factors 3, 7 and 10)	102
7.7. Frameworks for levels of attainment (factors 5, 6)	103
7.8. Contrasts in the system: qualifications and systems of regulation (factors 1, 3, 4, 6 and 9)	106
7.9. Convergence: movement beneath the surface	109
7.10. Summary	112
References	113
Appendix 7.1. NVQ framework - levels	116
8. JEROEN ONSTENK - NEW STRUCTURES AND NEW CONTENTS IN DUTCH VOCATIONAL EDUCATION	117
8.1. Towards an integrated VET-system	117
8.1.1 Restructuring vocational education	118
8.1.2 Towards fewer and larger schools	119
8.1.3 Shared responsibility: The role of business and national bodies	120
8.2. New contents in vocational education: towards a broad concept of competence	121
8.2.1 Developing vocational profiles	121
8.2.2 Occupational problems	123
8.2.3 Key qualifications and broad competence	125
8.2.3 Core problems	126
8.3. Concluding remarks	129
References	129

9. FRANK ACHTENHAGEN - GENERAL VERSUS VOCATIONAL EDUCATION - DEMARCATION AND INTEGRATION	133
9.1. Approaches to bridging the gap between academic and vocational education	135
9.1.1. Megatrends and their consequences for vocational education	135
9.1.2. Opening up the certification system with regard to vocational education and training	136
9.1.3. Opening up the vocational educational system to new goals as key-qualifications	137
1. The structure of goals and contents	138
2. The structure of instructional methods.	140
3. New forms of assessment.	141
9.2. One possible solution of the demarcation problem: key-qualifications within vocational education	141
References	142
 Part 3: Key qualifications in research and practice	 145
 10. JUDITH MARQUAND - OCCUPATIONAL STANDARDS AND BUSINESS ETHICS	 147
10.1. Case study - Britain	148
10.2. Different cultures of capitalism	156
10.3. Conclusion - some questions	161
References	162
 11. ALAN BROWN - DESIGNING EFFECTIVE LEARNING PROGRAMS FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF A BROAD OCCUPATIONAL COMPETENCE	 165
11.1. Aims of learning programs seeking to promote broad occupational competence	166
11.1.1. Learning to learn	166
11.1.2. Core skills	167
11.1.3. Ability to transfer	168
11.2. Critical learning processes and outcomes	169
11.2.1. Reflection	169
11.2.2. Development of thinking skills	170
11.2.3. Development of learner independence	171
11.2.4. Teamwork and collaborative learning	172
11.2.5. Learning and assessment processes being linked	174
11.2.6. Importance of learners developing a substantive knowledge base	175
11.3. Effective work-based learning	176
11.3.1. Context of learning	176
11.3.2. Quality of learning environments in companies	177
11.3.3. Potential of work-based learning	178
11.3.4. Quality of support in the workplace	179
11.4. Conclusions	180
References	181
 12. CATHLEEN STASZ - GENERIC SKILLS AT WORK: IMPLICATIONS FOR OCCUPATIONALLY-ORIENTED EDUCATION	 187
12.1.1. Occupationally-oriented education for the new workplace	188
12.1.2. Defining new skills	189
12.2. Conceptual approach and methods	190
12.2.1. Analytic procedures	191
12.2.2. Defining generic skills	191
12.3. Skills in practice	193
12.3.1. Problem solving	193
12.3.2. Communications	195
12.3.3. Teamwork	195
12.4. Employer perceptions of skill needs	196

12.5. Implications for research and practice in occupationally-oriented education	198
12.5.1. Instructional activities to teach generic skills must be sensitive to work context	198
12.5.2. Learning environments should reflect 'authentic' practice	199
12.5.3. Teacher training and staff development should support the design of authentic learning environments	200
12.5.4. Building effective industry-education partnerships	201
12.5.5. Adopt a socially situated view of skills	201
12.5.6. Occupationally-oriented education is one component of a workforce development system	202
References	203
13. ALISON WOLF - COMPETENCE BASED ASSESSMENT. DOES IT SHIFT THE DEMARCATIION LINES?	207
13.1. The argument for competence-based qualifications	208
13.2. Competence-based assessment	209
13.3. The evolution of occupational standards	211
13.4. Uptake of NVQs	213
13.5. Different players, different interests	213
13.6. The demand for general education	215
13.7. Conclusion	219
References	219
14. HANS HEIJKE AND GER RAMAEKERS - THE KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS OF ECONOMICS GRADUATES AND THEIR SIGNIFICANCE ON THE LABOUR MARKET	221
14.1. Theory	222
14.2. The data	225
14.3. Sorts of qualifications	226
14.4. The qualifications obtained	228
14.5. Occupational domains	234
14.6. Wages	236
14.7. The choice of occupational domain	239
14.8. Conclusions	241
References	244
Appendix 14.1. Explanatory variables used in the estimates	245
Part 4: Reflections	247
15. JAN N. STREUMER AND DAVID C. BJORKQUIST - MOVING BEYOND TRADITIONAL VOCATIONAL EDUCATION AND TRAINING: EMERGING ISSUES	249
15.1 Key Qualification, qualification, competence and occupation	249
15.2 Factors leading to organisational change and changes in the nature of the workplace	252
15.2.1 Technology, Economy and Work	253
15.2.2 Workforce Demographics	255
15.3 Organisational Change	256
15.4 Responsiveness of vocational education and training	258
15.5 Conclusions and reflection	260
References	262
INDEX	265
LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS	273