

MULTILINGUAL MATTERS 63

Series Editor: Derrick Sharp

Cultural Studies and Language Learning

A Research Report

Michael Byram,
Veronica Esarte-Sarries and
Susan Taylor

MULTILINGUAL MATTERS LTD
Clevedon • Philadelphia

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	xi
Purposes and Contexts	xi
Empirical Research—and Development	xiv
Composition of this Book.....	xv
1 The Context of Research: Defining the Topic and Developing the Design	1
Introduction	1
‘Culture’ in Foreign Language Teaching: An Overview	2
Planning the Research Design.....	7
2 Pupils’ Perceptions of Other Cultures	16
Operationalisation of ‘Perceptions’.....	16
Selection of Approaches to Interview Analysis	19
Perceptions of Life in France: Two Illustrations.....	22
Class Case Studies	83
3 Pupils’ Attitudes towards Foreign People	145
Introduction	145
Operationalisation of ‘Attitudes’ and Other Variables.....	145
Levels of Ethnocentricity: Selection of Dependent Variables.....	150
Relating Levels of Ethnocentricity to Independent Variables.....	151
Results	162
Discussion	186
Exploring Attitudes in Interviews	189
Discussion	217
4 Sources of and Influences on Pupils’ Perceptions and Attitudes —The Pupils’ Views.....	223
Introduction	223
Sources and Influences from Outside School	223
Sources and Influences Inside the School.....	277

5	The Effect of French Teaching—Observations in the Classroom	295
	Introduction	295
	Data Collection	297
	Data Analysis	302
	Language Teaching in Two Secondary Schools	304
	Analysis of the Textbook	313
	The Case Studies	325
	Teaching Styles	352
6	Models of Cultural Studies Teaching and Learning	365
	Purpose and Status of the Models	365
	The Framework Model	367
	Four Models of Culture Teaching and Learning.....	370
	A Critique of the Four Models.....	373
	Drawing Conclusions.....	378
7	From ‘Pure’ Research to Curriculum Development	382
	An ‘Ideal Model’ of Culture Teaching	382
	Perspectives and Applications	388
	Appendices	391
	References	401
	Index	405