

Nazi Cinema's New Women

JANA F. BRUNS

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of Illustrations	page vii
Special Terms and Abbreviations	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Introduction	I
1 Film Stars and the Institutional Development of Nazi Film	15
I. A “Trusting Partnership” with the New Regime	15
II. Reforming the Censorship System	29
III. The Final Step: Nationalization and the Creation of “Ufi”	36
2 The Queen of Revue Films: Marika Rökk	53
I. Beginnings: A Hungarian Wunderkind	55
II. The Perils of Becoming Eleanor Powell	75
III. Decadence and Defeat	88
3 The Eternal Feminine: Zarah Leander	109
I. Beginnings: Creating the Myth of Zarah Leander	113
II. Experiments	132
III. The Quest for the Proper Wartime Heroine	149
4 The Disobedient Maiden: Kristina Söderbaum	171
I. Beginnings: The Director’s Muse	177
II. Sexual Deviance as Political Spectacle	189
III. Eroticizing Death	215
Conclusion: Women, Gender, and the Politics of Desire in Nazi Cinema	225

Filmographies	237
Bibliography	245
Manuscript Collections	245
Document Collections	247
Primary Sources	248
Secondary Sources	252
Index	261