

GERMANY'S COLD WAR

---

The Global Campaign to Isolate

---

East Germany, 1949–1969

---

WILLIAM GLENN GRAY

---

The University of North Carolina Press Chapel Hill & London

Contents

---

Acknowledgments ix

Abbreviations xiii

Introduction i

Chapter 1. Containing East Germany in the Early 1950s 10

Constructing the Diplomatic Blockade 13

East German "Sovereignty" and the Western Response 21

Chapter 2. Staving Off Collapse 30

A Shifting Landscape: Geneva and Moscow 31

The Blockade Slips 39

The Bonn Ambassadors' Conference 44

"Managed Relationships" and the Isolation Campaign 49

Chapter 3. Yugoslavia Crosses the Line 58

Grasping for Openings 59

Damascus, but Not Warsaw 65

A Failure of Deterrence 74

The Hallstein Doctrine 81

Chapter 4. Scrambling for Africa 87

Otto Grotewohl's Journey 88

Doubts and Hesitations: The Berlin Crisis 95

Bonn's Counteroffensive 102

Guinea: The Exception That Proved the Rule 107

Chapter 5. Development Aid and the Hallstein Doctrine:

A Trajectory of Disillusionment 116

Bonn's Billion-Dollar Aid Program 117

The Shock of the Belgrade Conference 123

Experiments in Economic Leverage 131

Chapter 6. The Perils of Détente 140

De Gaulle, Détente, and the "Policy of Movement" 141

Planning the Breakthrough 147

"New Measures" in Ceylon and Zanzibar 155

The Apex of West German Vigilance 162

Chapter 7. The Peculiar Longevity of a Discredited Doctrine 174

The Debacle: West Germany's Expulsion from the Arab World 174

The Contest Goes On 182

Unification Hysteria and Erhard's Political Demise 191

Chapter 8. Of Two Minds:

The Grand Coalition and the Problem of Recognition 196

The Ulbricht Doctrine 197

The Coalition "Cambodes" 205

A Qualified Breakthrough 212

Conclusion 220

The Halting Progress of a German Sisypheus 221

A War within a War 226

The Hallstein Doctrine and German Unity 229

Notes 235

Bibliography 323

Index 343