

Opritsa D. Popa
Bibliophiles and Bibliothieves

The Search for the Hildebrandslied and the Willehalm Codex

With a preface by Winder McConnell

Walter de Gruyter • Berlin • New York
2003

Contents

---

Preface . . . . .	VII
List of Illustrations . . . . .	XIII
Introduction and Acknowledgments . . . . .	1
Liber Sapientiae and Willehalm Codex , 1939–2002 – A Chronology . . . . .	5
Chapter 1: “They’ve sown the wind and now they reap the whirlwind” . . . . .	9
Chapter 2: “Habent sua fata libelli” – Books have their own destiny . . . . .	23
Chapter 3: Countdown to surrender . . . . .	38
Chapter 4: “Protect and respect those symbols” . . . . .	47
Chapter 5: Of US Safekeepers, Soviet Trophy Commissars and marauding soldier . . . . .	55
Chapter 6: “Enjoy the war; the peace is going to be terrible” . . . . .	67
Chapter 7: Hope deferred . . . . .	78
Chapter 8: Going, going, gone! . . . . .	84
Chapter 9: “Belle of the Books” . . . . .	96
Chapter 10: The Professor . . . . .	111
Chapter 11: The Countess of Camarillo . . . . .	119
Chapter 12: Ardelia . . . . .	127
Chapter 13: From the ashes of the Phoenix . . . . .	147
Chapter 14: Return of the wounded warrior . . . . .	158
Chapter 15: Eyewitness . . . . .	166
Chapter 16: Ten years later: Proof, proof and more proof . . . . .	173
Chapter 17: To err is human, to admit, divine . . . . .	187
Chapter 18: The owl of Minerva . . . . .	198
Chapter 19: “The last, the worst dull spoiler, who was he?” . . . . .	207
Appendix . . . . .	223
Biographical Sketches . . . . .	225
Works Cited . . . . .	241
Index . . . . .	255