

David J. Shayler and Ian A. Moule

Women in Space - Following Valentina

£} Springer

Published in association with Praxis Publishing
Chichester, UK

Table of contents

Foreword	xiii
Authors' preface	xvii
Acknowledgements	xxi
List of illustrations	xxiii
Prologue	xxvii
INTO THE WIDE BLUE YONDER	1
Women in astronomy	1
Astronomy in the ancient world	1
The beginnings of modern astronomy	2
'It simply will not do!'	3
Caroline Herschel	4
Maria Mitchell	5
The Harvard computers	6
British amateur astronomers	6
From astronomy to space	8
Pioneering women aviators	8
A sheep, a duck and a chicken	8
'She's actually been flying!'	9
Marie Blanchard	10
The first giant leaps	10
Higher, further, faster	11
Into the stratosphere	12
With wings and engines	12
The Wright stuff	13
Magnificent women in their flying machines	13
Women at war	15
The Great War in the air	15
Explorers of the sunlit sky	17
Barnstormers and wing-walkers	17
The Roaring Twenties	18

viii Table of contents

The first National Women's Air Derby	21
Trophies and races	21
Across the Atlantic and around the world	23
Aviation academics and attainments	23
Winged sisters of the Soviet Union	24
The road to the stratosphere	24
Ascent into history	25
Amy to Australia	26
Amelia across the Atlantic	28
A shrinking world and a new war	31
The Air Transport Auxiliary	32
Women's Air Service Pilots	34
Jackie Cochran	35
Soviet female combat pilots	37
Pancho Barnes and the Happy Bottom Riding Club	39
From Aglaonike to Pancho Barnes: pioneers of the skies	40
References	40
A SEAGULL IN ORBIT	43
A Soviet woman in space	43
A female cosmonaut	44
The first female selection	45
Training the cosmonauts	48
Planning for	flight 50
A female pressure garment	50
Progress towards launch	51
Mission training	53
Who would	fly? 53
The clock is counting	57
A new start: 16 June 1963	58
Seagull ascending	58
The flight programme	60
The seagull lands	62
A second spaceflight?	64
Voskhod 5 and a female EVA?	65
Following Valentina	66
References	67
THE RIGHT STUFF, THE WRONG SEX	69
The seven Mercury astronauts	69
Dee O'Hara: nurse to the astronauts	71
A 'girl astronaut' programme	73
Ruth Nichols and the WADC 'astronaut tests'	75
Betty Skelton and the 'astronaut tests' for LOOK magazine	76
Jerrie Cobb and the Lovelace 'astronaut tests'	80

The Lovelace class of 1961.	83
The House of Representatives.	87
I never said I was an astronaut!	90
Women and the Gemini, Apollo and Skylab programmes.	92
Behind the scenes.	97
Small steps for women.	97
The primary back-up crew: the astronaut family.	105
The 'astronauts' wives club'.	106
'Extremely pleased, honoured and proud'.	107
With admiration and love.	108
Hiding the anxiety.	108
References.	110
THE ROCKET-PLANE AND THE SPACE SHUTTLE	113
A new type of aeroplane.	113
Dr Eugen Sanger and his Silbervogel.	114
Dr Irene Bredt and the Rakettenbomber.	115
Ainring and the Sanger-Bredt report.	117
The Sanger-Bredt antipodal rocket bomber.	118
Paperclip, marriage and attempted kidnap.	119
Wings, rockets and wallpaper girls.	119
The bat.	120
Hanna Reitsch: German test-pilot.	121
Mach 1 and beyond	126
Men were engineers; women were computers.	128
Brassieres, capstans and rocket-plane pilots.	131
Alice King Chatham: the enigma	134
David Clark Company and the two Jacqueline.	136
Margaret McGrew and the Mach 2.8 missile.	137
Evolution of the Space Shuttle.	138
Flights to the edge of space.	139
Rose Lunn and the X-15.	139
Women at NASA FRC and the X-15.	140
Women at NASA FRC and wingless flight.	144
Enter Enterprise	145
US clearance for females on Space Shuttle flights.	147
Nichelle Nichols and NASA's minority astronauts.	151
Spacelab.	156
Supporting the Shuttle.	161
Suiting up for the Shuttle.	161
Director of Johnson Space Center.	163
References.	164
SHUTTLENAUTS	167
Selecting for the Shuttle.	168

x Table of contents

The first Shuttle selection process	169
Twenty-nine new guys and six new girls	172
Follow-on selections, 1980-90.	174
New roles for new astronauts.	177
Seats to spare?	180
Ascan training	182
The first Ascans.	183
Training to survive.	184
Technical training	186
Technical assignments.	187
Pilot-pool training	189
Shuttle crew training	192
Astronaut Office branch office assignments.	193
First female crew-members on the Shuttle.	194
References.	194
SALLY AND SVETLANA	197
Blazing a new trail	198
The first assignments.	198
The Soviet response.	199
A varied selection.	200
Svetlana, Soyuz and Salyut	203
Soyuz T-7: a mission to Salyut.	204
Experiments to perform.	204
No special privileges.	205
After the flight	207
Ride, Sally, ride	208
Sitting next to Sally.	208
Preparing to fly	209
'Definitely an E ticket'.	211
Sally Ride: from sport to space.	211
'Isn't science wonderful?'.	212
Back in training.	215
Following Sally.	215
Female shuttlenauts.	215
A voyage of discovery.	216
'Hi Dad'.	216
A well-behaved solar array.	217
Ice-busters.	218
'Don't fall in love with your mission'.	218
Kathy, Anna, Rhea and Shannon.	219
First American EVA.	219
Kathy Sullivan.	220
STS 41-G and the first US female EVA.	220
Two up and two down.	221

Anna Fisher	222
Satellites for sale	223
An exhausting exercise	223
Orbital surgery	224
Rhea Seddon	224
Girl Scout camp	225
A most successful international mission	226
Shannon Lucid	226
Into orbit ... by a nose	227
Mission accomplished	227
References	228

SHUTTLE SPECIALISTS AND PASSENGERS 231

From the planet Earth	231
A laboratory for space	232
Manned spaceflight engineers	234
International Shuttle candidates	238
Spaceflight participants	239
New NASA selections	242
Triumph to tragedy	244
A 'full-up' mission	245
Cleave's comet	246
A helping hand	247
McAuliffe's ultimate field trip	248
'The vehicle has exploded'	249
After Challenger	250
Return-to-Flight	251
Launch after launch	253
Probes and observatories	254
The Shuttle-Mir years	273
An all-female Shuttle crew	285
An all-female Salyut visiting mission	285
Considering an all-female Shuttle mission	287
The Shuttle-ISS years	290
The end of an era	290
Return to flight	297
References	301

STATIONS IN SPACE 305

Savitskaya spacewalks	305
Soyuz T-8	306
Soyuz T-12	308
The first female steps into space	308
The 1980 selection disbanded	310
Commercial customers	311

Journalist cosmonauts	311
An actor's life.	313
'Astronaut wanted - no experience necessary'.	314
New Russian female cosmonauts, 1989-2004.	316
Women on Mir, 1991-98.	317
The first female on Mir.	317
A Russian female long-duration mission - at last.	318
Back-up to Norm.	320
Two Yuris and a Shannon.	323
Entente cordiale.	326
'Too short' Lawrence.	328
A new station, a new era, 1988-2004.	329
Science with the second crew.	329
Seats on Soyuz.	331
Andromede.	332
The first ISS Science Officer.	334
The future of ISS operations.	336
Female space-station yuhangyuans?.	336
References.	337
EARTH ORBIT AND BEYOND.	339
And so to Mars.	339
An all-woman Mars crew?.	339
The Extended Duration Orbiter Medical Project.	340
Bed rest experiments continue.	340
International cooperation - or confrontation?.	341
Family or space?.	341
The ISS and women's health.	342
From outer space to inner space: combating cancer.	343
From outer space to inner space: osteoporosis.	351
From outer space to inner space: ageing.	354
To boldly go.	356
The journey continues.	362
References.	363
CONCLUSION.	367
Appendix 1 Spaceflight chronology, 1963-2003.	371
Appendix 2 Careers and experience.	379
Appendix 3 Spaceflight records and EVAs.	383
Appendix 4 NASA Shuttle missions with female crew-members, 1983-2004.	387
Glossary.	393
Bibliography.	397
Index.	401