

‘Talkin’ ‘bout my generation’

Conflicts of generation building and Europe’s ‘1968’

Edited by
Anna von der Goltz

WALLSTEIN VERLAG

Inhalt

Introduction by Anna von der Goltz

Generational belonging and the '68ers' in Europe	7
------------------------------------------------------------	---

Building an international generation

Robert Gildea

'La hantise de devenir vieux cons comme ses parents': activist definition of the 1968 generation in France	31
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

Marica Tolomelli

Italian youth in the 1960s and the preconditions for building a generation	51
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

Holger Nehring

'Generation', modernity and the making of contemporary history: responses in West European Protest Movements around '1968'	71
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	----

Generational narratives and '1968' in East-Central Europe

Péter Apor and James Mark

Mobilising generation: The idea of 1968 in Hungary	97
-----------------------------------------------------------------	----

Ondřej Matějka

'We are the generation that will construct socialism' The Czech 68ers between manifest destiny and mark of Cain.	116
-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

Piotr Osęka

'The people of March' A self-portrait of Poland's generation '68	137
-------------------------------------------------------------------------------	-----

A Clash of Generations

Dominik Geppert
Gruppe 47 and ‘1968’ 163

Riccardo Bavaj
Young, old, and in-between:
Liberal scholars and ‘generation building’ at the time of West Germany’s student revolt. 175

A divided Generation

Anna von der Goltz
A polarised generation?
Conservative students and West Germany’s ‘1968’ 195

Knud Andresen
The West German Lehrlingsbewegung, 1969-1972
Why there is no ‘68er generation’ of young workers 216

The Authors 230