THE NEW WOMAN’S FILM
Femme-Centric Movies for Smart Chicks

Hilary Radner
CONTENTS

List of Figures ix
Acknowledgments xi

Introduction: What Do Women Watch? 1

1 After the Woman's Picture: The New Woman's Film and the Chick Flick 7

2 The New Woman's Film in the Twenty-First Century: The Smart-Chick Film and Rachel Getting Married (Jonathan Demme, 2008) 26

3 Anticipating the Twenty-First Century: “Dirty Harry Bathed in a Romantic Glow?” and The Bridges of Madison Country (Clint Eastwood, 1995) 48

5 Stardom, Celebrity and the New Woman's Film: Tilda Swinton and the Maternal Melodrama—“Winning an Oscar Was Wasted on Me” 91
Contents

6 Oscars for Women and the Films of Woody Allen: Blue Jasmine (Woody Allen, 2013) 112

7 The Girl Crush: Frances Ha (Noah Baumbach, 2012), “The Toast of Telluride” 131

8 Diversity, the Female Biopic and the New Woman’s Film: Belle (Amma Asante, 2013) 152

9 A Past with a Future, the Ongoing Evolution of the New Woman’s Film: From Top of the Lake (Sundance Channel, 2013–) to Fifty Shades of Grey (Sam Taylor-Johnson, 2015) 173

Coda: Feminism Redux 190

Select Bibliography 195
Index 202