
Macro Trading and Investment Strategies

Macroeconomic Arbitrage
in Global Markets

Gabriel Burstein

John Wiley & Sons, Inc.

New York • Chichester • Weinheim • Brisbane • Singapore • Toronto

Contents

1. Introduction: From Subjective Macroeconomic Views to Objective Macroeconomic Mispricings in Global Markets	1
2. Macro Trading and Investment Strategies	5
3. Directional Macro Trading and Investment	13
4. Long/Short Macro Trading and Investment	25
5. Macroeconomic Arbitrage in Global Markets: A New Macro Strategy	43
6. Comparison between Macroeconomic Arbitrage, Directional Macro, and Long/Short Macro Strategies	51
7. Macroeconomic Arbitrage Based on Retail Sales Mispricings in Markets	59
8. Causes of Macroeconomic Mispricings in Markets and Tackling Secondary Macroeconomic Variables in Trades	67
9. The Importance of Technical Timing in Macro Arbitrage	73
10. The Relation between Macro and Micro Fundamentals in Macro Arbitrage	81

Contents

11. Volatility of Macro Arbitrage Strategies versus Relative Value Strategies	87
12. Macro Arbitrage Is Uncorrelated to Directional and Relative Value Strategies	95
13. Macro Arbitrage Trading and Investment Based on Gross Domestic Product (GDP) Mispricings in Global Markets	103
14. Macro Arbitrage Based on Interest Rates Mispricing in Global Markets	115
15. Macro Arbitrage of Consumer Expenditure Mispricings in Global Markets	125
16. Macro Arbitrage of Manufacturing Shipments Mispricings in Global Markets	133
17. Mispricings of Asian Crisis Effects on Global Markets: When Macro Events Trigger Subliminal Market Relations	139
18. Macro Arbitrage of EMU Convergence Mispricings in Equity Markets	169
19. Macro Mispricings of Currencies (Exchange Rates) in Stock Markets	183
20. Long/Short Macro Spreads and Macro Arbitrage Opportunities within the New EMU Euro Stock Markets	191
21. Macro Arbitrage of Industrial Production Mispricings in Equity Markets	205
Epilogue Global Financial Crisis Domino Effect Corrects Macro Mispricings	211
Index	225