

Improving Tourism and Hospitality Services

Eric Laws

CABI Publishing

Contents

Figures	ix
Tables	xi
Case studies	xiii
Acknowledgements	xiv
Introduction	xv
Chapter 1 Service quality in tourism and hospitality
Introduction	1
The context to contemporary tourism service provision	2
Tourism and hospitality service failures	4
Case studies	6
Analysing tourism service quality	9
Conclusion	11
Chapter 2 Tourism and hospitality service quality research
Introduction	13
The distinguishing characteristics of tourism services	16
The challenge of managing services	19
Myopia in managing services	20
Service encounters – moments of truth	22
Theoretical frameworks for tourism and hospitality service research	22
Qualitative research and case studies	28
Case studies of service problems	28
Conclusion	30

Chapter 3	Analysing service experiences in tourism and hospitality
	Introduction	32
	Events in tourists' experiences	32
	Satisfaction boosters and depressants	36
	Service phases, episodes and events	37
	Consumerist gap taxonomy for service encounter analysis	38
	Consumerist gap research methods	38
	The diary method and its limitations	40
	Just noticeable differences	40
	Content analysis theory	41
	Critical incident techniques	42
	Expectations of responses to service difficulties	43
	A synthesis of service experiences and service design	46
	Conclusion	46
Chapter 4	Tourism and hospitality service delivery systems
	Introduction	48
	Technical aspects of service systems	48
	Style considerations	50
	Performance criteria	54
	Design errors	55
	Service blueprinting	57
	Mapping tourism services	60
	Development of service blueprinting	61
	Service blueprinting as a research tool	62
	Perceptual blueprinting	72
	Implications for organizational change	73
	Conclusion	77
Chapter 5	Service quality and tourist satisfaction
	Introduction	79
	Definitions of quality	79
	Issues in service quality	80
	Gaps between expectations and service experiences	85
	SERVQUAL	85
	SERVQUAL and tourism	87
	The SERVQUAL debate	89
	Dissatisfaction with services	90

The costs of managing service quality	91
Conclusion	99
Chapter 6 Marketing tourism and hospitality services
Introduction	100
The service marketing paradigm	100
The significance of influencing consumer choice	101
Core and enhanced services	103
Service bundles	106
Differentiating tourism services	108
Positioning tourism services	109
Exaggerated service claims	112
Issues in pricing tourism services	115
Pricing inclusive holidays	116
Seasonal pricing	117
Late booking	118
Responses to late offers	119
Price relativities as a signal of product quality	120
Reducing price levels and broadening market demand	122
Customer loyalty	122
Further consideration of tourism purchasing decisions:
consumer involvement	123
Time in the experience of tourist services	126
Conclusion	129
Chapter 7 Improving tourism and hospitality service systems
Introduction	130
Service management	131
Dyadic and multiplex service interactions	133
Customer participation in services	134
Service encounters	135
Service performance: further discussion	139
The Servuction approach	140
Quality control	141
Service standards	141
Quality control in tourism services	142
ISO 9000	143
Quality audits	144
Profit impacts of service quality control measures	145
Service problem or service crisis?	146

Learning from complaints	147
Service interruptions	148
Understanding passenger expectations during delay management	150
The costs of quality control	155
Conclusion	157
Chapter 8 The management of tourism and hospitality organizations
Introduction	158
First or second generation service thinking	158
Managing service companies	160
Organizational climate	162
Service design and organizational cultures	167
Interdependency in the holiday industry	170
The limits of management control	173
Further considerations	176
Conclusion	177
Appendix: slides for a management development workshop	178
Bibliography	183
Index	201