

---

The Stakeholding Society

Writings on Politics and Economics

---

Will Hutton

Edited by David Goldblatt

---

C
Polity Press

Contents

Editor's Note	viii
Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	1
I Enlivening the Dismal Science: The Limits to Economic Orthodoxy
New Economics Hits at Market Orthodoxy	9
Monetarist Mantra has Lost its Magic	12
An End to the Rule of Fish Market Economics	15
Equality is the Casualty of an Unhealthy Market	18
Priceless Assets Amount to Folly	21
Wealth or Happiness may be in Store	25
II The Keynesian Revival: New Arguments for Growth and Employment
Back by Popular Demand	31
Who's Whistling the Best Tunes Now?	40
Follow Spitfire, Not Concorde	43
Trade with a Tangible Return to Well-Being	46
III London Babylon: The City, Finance and the British Economy
Money before Machines	53
Why Rover was Driven out of UK Hands	58
A City without Controls has Resulted in a Capital Market out of Control	61
Jobs and Growth Mean Regulation	64
The Sad Story of British Biotech	67
IV Ownership Matters: Short-Termism, Stakeholding and Corporate Governance
Raising the Stakes	73
Time for Labour to Put some Spine into its Stakeholding Idea	77

Stake that Claim	79
Only Working Together will Save the Economy	82
Tony and the Tories: This is what we Mean	88
Healing Community Requires Reform rather than Rhetoric	92
Darkness at the Heart of Privatization	95

V Taming Mammon: The Growth and Regulation of the Global Economy

Reviving Bretton Woods	101
Crisis in Mexico should Puncture the Conservatives' Complacency	107
Job Worries Contain Message of Import	111
Myth that Sets the World to Rights	114
Restrain these Corporate Godzillas	117

VI European Dilemmas: From ERM to EMU

The Chancellor, the Banker, and Deaf Ears in Bath	123
Black Wednesday Massacre	129
Nothing but the Actualité?	136
Winds over the West	139
The Cost of Going it Alone in Europe	141
Imperial Echo Defies Logic	144
X Marks the Spot for Start of Euro Race	147
Hot Money Goes Euro	149

VII The Political Economy of Penury: Taxation and Public Spending in the UK

Taxing Question should be a Matter of More, not Less	157
A Tax that Needs to Go Up, not Down	160
We All Lose out in the Tories' Lottery Game	163
Cashing in on the North Sea Bubble	165
Millennium Fiasco that is a Monument to Failure	168

VIII An Age of Insecurity? Polarization, Poverty and the Fraying of our Social Fabric

High-Risk Strategy	173
What Comes after the Gold Rush?	178
Why the Poor Remain Silent	180
Why a Minimum Wage Offers Maximum Returns for All	183
Investing in Social Capital can Help to Counter the Spate of Evil	186
Priceless Gifts within Everybody's Reach	189
Happiness that Money Truly cannot Buy	192

IX Lessons from Elsewhere: Alternative Models of Capitalism

Tory Fantasy of Far Eastern Promise	199
Britain Falls Short of the Mark	203
Germany Defies Prophets of Doom	206
Shock that Threatens Downtown America	209
Age of Anxiety as Communism Collapses	212
That's the Thing about Paper Tigers: They Burn	215
Sun, Sea, Wine and Loneliness Down Under	218

X The State We're In: Constitutional Struggles and Economic Revival

Royal Reform Key to Real Recovery	223
Moment of Truth for the Rentier State	226
Time to Sever the Thin Blue Line	229
A Mad Way to Run a Country	232
Snow White Ideology and the 30 Million Dwarfs	235
It is Broke, and it Needs Fixing	238
A Princess, a Funeral and a Nation's Sadness	242

XI The Times they are Changing? New Labour's First Year

A New Era? Definitely	249
Break the Locks on Labour's War Chest	251
Labour must Stop Ducking the Issue of Inequality	254
Scotland has to Seize the Day – for All our Sakes	257
Blair is Forcing us to Make the Hardest Choice	259
Blair's Big Tent is Now Blowing in the Wind	261
Didn't he Do Well? Well . . . Did he?	263

Afterword	267
------------------	-----

Index	275
--------------	-----