

Antonio Negri

Marx and Foucault
Essays Volume 1

Translated by Ed Emery

polity

Contents

Introduction	1
Part I
1 Why Marx?	17
2 Reflections on the Use of Dialectics	32
3 Thoughts Regarding ‘Critical Foresight’ in the Unpublished Chapter VI of Marx’s Capital , Volume 1	42
4 Acting in Common, and the Limits of Capital	58
5 Is It Possible to Be Communists without Marx?	70
Part II
6 An Italian Breakpoint: Production versus Development	81
7 On ‘Italian Theory’	91
8 The Constitution of the Common and the Logics of the Left	100
9 On the Future of the European Social Democracies	110
10 Let’s Start Reading Gramsci Again	117
11 Biopower and Biopolitics: Subjectivities in Struggle	121
Part III
12 On the Method of Political Critique	137
13 How and When I Read Foucault	155

14	Gilles Felix: The How and When of Deleuze–Guattari	166
15	Observations on the ‘Production of Subjectivity’: On an Intervention by Pierre Macherey Co-authored with Judith Revel	183
16	Marx after Foucault: The Subject Refound	188
	References	199
	Origin of the Texts	203