

Developments in Islamic

The Case of Pakistan

M. Mansoor Khan and M. Ishaq Bhatti

Forewords by Rodney Wilson and Agil Natt

Contents

List of Tables and Figures	xiv
Foreword by Rodney Wilson	xv
Foreword by Agil Natt	xvii
Preface and Acknowledgements	xix
List of Abbreviations	xxi
Glossary of Arabic Words and Terms	xxiii
1 Introduction	1
1.1 Preamble	1
1.2 Outline of the book	5
2 Islamic economics: Divine vision of distributive justice
2.1 Introduction
2.2 Ethical dilemmas of Conventional Economics
2.3 Guiding principles and goals of Islamic Economics
2.3.1 Right of private ownership
2.3.2 Free consent and mutual co-operation
2.3.3 Law of inheritance
2.3.4 Honesty, fairness and promise-keeping
2.3.5 Benevolence
2.3.6 Payment of zakah (obligatory religious tax)
2.3.7 Spending wealth on charity (sadaqah)
2.3.8 Condemnation of extravagance, hoarding and black marketeering
2.3.9 Condemnation of bribery, fraud and embezzlement
2.3.10 Prohibition of gambling and speculative (grarar) activities
2.3.11 Prohibition of the wine trade
2.3.12 Prohibition of riba (interest)
2.3.12.1 Universal prohibition of riba (interest)
2.3.12.2 Rationale behind the prohibition of riba (interest)

2.3.12.3	The debt crisis of poor countries	22
2.3.12.4	Rejection of time value of money and indexation of loans	25
2.4	Modern theories of equity and justice	25
2.4.1	John Rawls's theory of justice	26
2.4.2	Right-libertarianism	28
2.4.3	Left-libertarianism	29
2.4.4	Utilitarianism	30
2.4.5	Pluralism	34
2.4.6	Strict egalitarianism	35
2.5	Summary and conclusions	36

Islamic Banking and Finance Movement Worldwide:

	Performance and Prospects	38
3.1	Introduction	38
3.2	Evolution and growth of IBF	38
3.3	The IBF infrastructure	41
3.4	Factors contributing to exponential growth in IBF	42
3.5	Salient features of IBF	43
3.5.1	The value-based paradigm	43
3.5.2	Banking for the poor	44
3.5.3	Market-based credentials	44
3.6	Theory and practice of IBF	45
3.6.1	PLS modes: Mudarabah and Musharakah	45
3.6.2	Interest-free modes: Murabaha (deferred payment sale)	51
3.6.3	Interest-free modes: Ijarah (lease financing)	54
3.6.4	Interest-free modes: Bai Salam (advance payment) and Bai Istisna (procurement engagement)	54
3.7	Islamic financial market	57
3.7.1	Islamic capital market: Sukuks	57
3.7.2	Islamic equity investment funds market	59
3.7.3	Takaful or Islamic insurance market	60
3.8	IBF: Worldwide growth	62
3.8.1	IBF in the Middle East	63
3.8.2	IBF in South Asia (Subcontinent)	67
3.8.3	IBF in Southeast Asia	67
3.8.4	IBF in Africa: Sudan	69
3.8.5	IBF in European and Western countries	70
3.9	IBF: Challenges and prospects	71
3.10	Summary and conclusions	75

4	Conceptual Developments in Islamic Banking and Finance in Pakistan (1977-1980)	77
4.1	Introduction -	77
4.2	Policy instruments for eliminating interest	79
4.2.1	Primary and ideal instrument: The PLS system	79
4.2.2	Secondary instruments: Interest-free modes	81
4.2.2.1	Leasing	81
4.2.2.2	Investment auctioning	82
4.2.2.3	Bai Muajjal (Murabaha or deferred payment sale)	83
4.2.2.4	Hire purchase	84
4.2.2.5	Financing on the basis of normal rate of return	85
4.2.2.6	Time multiple counter-loans	86
4.2.2.7	Special loan facility	89
4.2.3	Unsuitable instruments	89
4.2.3.1	Service charge	89
4.2.3.2	Indexation of bank deposits and advances	90
4.3	Elimination of interest from economy-wide operations	91
4.3.1	Long-term financing: Participation Term Certificates (PTCs)	91
4.3.2	Islamic discounting of trade bills	93
4.3.3	Islamization of bank deposits	94
4.3.4	The evolutionary plan to eliminate interest	96
4.4	Islamic framework for central banking operations	97
4.4.1	Group one: Monetary policy tools requiring minor changes	97
4.4.2	Group two: Monetary policy tools requiring radical changes	99
4.4.2.1	Bank rate	99
4.4.2.2	Open market operations	100
4.5	The 1980 CII Report's scope and prospects	101
4.5.1	Broader context of the interest problem	101
4.5.2	The paradox of business ethics and moral hazard	102
4.5.3	Fair and truthful accounts versus certified accounts	102
4.5.4	Uncertain future for the PLS system	103
4.5.5	Islamic solutions to interest within conventional reach	103

4.5.6	The biggest obstacle to financial Islamization	104
4.6	Summary and conclusions	104
Islamic Banking and Finance Practice in Pakistan (1981-1991)		106
5.1	Introduction	106
5.2	Adoption and growth of IBF	106
5.2.1	Amendments to conventional banking laws	107
5.2.2	Early breakthrough in IBF set-ups	107
5.2.3	Islamization of non-banking financial institutions	108
5.2.4	Public response to PLS deposits	108
5.2.5	IBF framework execution phase	109
5.3	Critical features of IBF practice	110
5.3.1.	Mark-up (Bai Muajjal/Murabaha) financing	111
5.3.2	Musharakah (equity participation) financing	112
5.3.3	Mudarabah (joint venture)'financing (companies)	114
5.3.4	Participation Term Certificates (PTCs)	115
5.3.5	PLS deposits	116
5.4	Financial performance evaluation of IBF	117
5.4.1	Rate of Return (ROR) on PLS deposits	117
5.4.2	Return on Equity (ROE)	119
5.4.3	Strictly regulated market environments	120
5.5	Some reservations about: the IBF practice	121
5.5.1	Gross deviations from the CII's recommendations	121
5.5.2	Lack of proper Islamic training for bankers	123
5.5.3	Public concerns and doubts	123
5.5.4	The cover of Islamic nomenclatures	124
5.6	Summary and conclusions	124
The 1991 Federal Shariat Court (FSC) Judgement on Riba (Interest) and Islamic Banking and Finance Practice in Pakistan		126
6.1	Introduction	126
6.2	Judicial status of the FSC in Pakistan	126
6.3	The FSC's questionnaire	127
6.4	The FSC judgement	127
6.5	The un-Islamic features of the Pakistani finance sector	128
6.6	Public response to the FSC judgement	129
6.7	Government reaction to the FSC judgement	130
6.8	The FSC judgement on foreign investments	131

6.9	Appeals against the FSC judgement	132
6.10	Lessons learned from the FSC judgement	132
6.11	Summary and conclusions	133
7	Efforts to Revive Islamic Banking and Finance in Pakistan (1992-1998)	135
7.1	Introduction	135
7.2	The CIE's role and responsibilities	136
7.3	The CIE's first initiative: The 1992 Report on Banks and Financial Institutions	136
7.3.1	Gross irregularities in IBF practice	137
7.3.2	Main recommendations	138
7.3.3	Critical assessment of the CIE's recommendations	139
7.3.3.1	Narrow vision on interest problem	139
7.3.3.2	The pro-banking mentality	139
7.3.3.3	Lack of creativity and practicability	140
7.3.3.4	Time constraints and absence of devotion	141
7.3.3.5	Political considerations	141
7.4	The CIE's second initiative: The 1998 HIE Report	141
7.4.1	The IIIE's banking model	143
7.4.1.1	Bai Muajjal (deferred payment sale)	143
7.4.1.2	Bai Salam (advance payment)	144
7.4.1.3	Ijarah (operating lease)	144
7.4.1.4	A.I A Mudarabah (joint venture) and Musharakah (equity participation)	144
7.4.1.5	Qard-e-Hasanah and service charge (non-recommended modes)	145
7.4.2	IBF practice within Shariah framework	146
7.4.2.1	Mobilization of funds (deposits)	146
7.4.2.2	Funding different sectors of the economy	147
7.4.3	Central banking and monetary management	148
7.4.3.1	Islamic inter-bank money market	149
7.4.3.2	Monetary control measures	150
7.4.3.3	Monetary regulatory measures	151
7.4.3.4	Co-ordination in fiscal and monetary management	152

7.4.4	Critique of the HIE's overall themes •	153
7.4.4.1	Tentative premises to eliminate interest	153
7.4.4.2	Islamic financial system versus conventional financial system	154
7.4.4.3	Moral and motivational reinforcements	154
7.4.4.4	Passive approach towards practical difficulties	155
7.5	Summary and conclusions	156

The Impact of the Supreme Court Judgements of 1999 and 2002 on Riba (Interest) on the IBF Movement in Pakistan (1999-2007)		158
8.1	Introduction	158
8.2	The SC's stature in the judicial system of Pakistan	159
8.3	Main observations on the 1999 SC judgement	159
8.3.1	The SC's definition of riba (interest)	160
8.3.2	The Bai Muajjal (deferred payment sale) practice	160
8.3.3	The Ijarah (leasing) practice	161
8.3.4	The service charge practice	161
8.3.5	The PLS practice	161
8.3.6	The indexation system	162
8.3.7	Negotiable instruments and debt-based securities	162
8.3.8	Government borrowings	162
8.3.9	Need for a sound IBF infrastructure	163
8.4	The SC parameters for the Islamization of the economy	163
8.5	The process of Islamic transformation	164
8.5.1	Commission for transformation in the SBP	164
8.5.2	Task force in the Ministry of Law and Parliamentary Affairs	164
8.5.3	Task force in the Ministry of Finance	165
8.6	The Start-up process of Islamization	165
8.7	The government's appeal for an extension •	166
8.8	Dramatic U-turn on Islamization	166
8.9	The SC bench manoeuvring	167
8.10	The 2002 riba (interest) case review	168
8.10.1.	The government's arguments before the SC	168
8.10.2	UBL's arguments before the SC	170
8.10.3	The religious parties' arguments before the SC	170
8.11	The SC judgement on the 2002 riba (interest) case review	170

8.12	Anomalies in the 2002 SC judgement	171
8.13	Debate over the 2002 SC judgement	173
8.14	Reflection on the government's Islamization efforts	174
8.15	Present and future prospects of IBF in Pakistan	177
8.16	Summary and conclusions	179
9	The Causes of the Failure of Islamic Banking and Finance in Pakistan	181
9.1	Introduction	181
9.2	Government machinery	181
9.2.1	Lack of genuine political support	183
9.2.2	The noncommittal attitude of bureaucrats	184
9.3	The banking and financial sector environments	185
9.3.1	Lack of professionalism at the SBP	185
9.3.2	Lack of Islamic training and education for bankers	186
9.3.3	Financial mismanagement and incompetence	186
9.3.3.1	Non-performing loans, write-offs and co-operative scandals	187
9.3.3.2	Monopoly on bank credit	188
9.3.3.3	Expensive and unpopular financial services	189
9.4	General socio-economic governance	189
9.4.1	Risk-averse depositors	190
9.4.2	Cold shoulder from business people	190
9.4.3	Huge burden of foreign and domestic debt	191
9.4.4	Weak and slow legal system	194
9.4.5	Rigid and narrowly based tax system	194
9.4.6	Malpractices and rampant corruption	195
9.4.7	The exploitative socio-economic set-up	196
9.5	Privatization and globalization of the market economy	198
9.6	Summary and conclusions	198
10	Summary and Conclusions	200
	Notes	207
	References	220

Appendices		231
Appendix I		231
Appendix II		238
Appendix III		241
Appendix IV		244
Appendix	V	246
Appendix	VI	251
Index		255