

Locke
A Biography

ROGER WOOLHOUSE
University of York

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Preface

page xiii

INTRODUCTION "A MAN OF VERSATILE MIND"

1	UPBRINGING AND EDUCATION (1632-1658)	5
	1632-1646: "I found myself in a storm" (Somerset childhood)	5
	1646-1652: "A very severe school" (Westminster School)	10
	1652-1656: "No very hard student" (Oxford B.A. studies)	'5
	1656-1658: "A most learned and ingenious young man" (Oxford M.A. studies)	20
2	COLLEGE OFFICES AND MEDICAL STUDIES (1659-1667)	23
	January-December 1659: "Melancholy and discontented" (Away from friends)	23
	January-December 1659: "Study in earnest" (Medicine; toleration)	30
	January-October 1660: "I shall not willingly be drawn from hence" (Medicine; anxieties about political situation)	32
	October-December 1660: "Whether the civil magistrate may lawfully impose" (Law of nature; "First Tract on Government")	38

	December 1660-December 1662: "Quiet and settlement" (Father's death; college tutor, and lecturer in Greek; "Infallibility"; lecturer in Rhetoric; "Second Tract on Government")	43
	January 1663-November 1665: "No law without a law-maker" (Chemistry; ecclesiastical offers; "Essays on the Law of Nature"; respiration and blood)	52
	November 1665-February 1666: "Took coach for Germany" (Diplomacy in Cleves)	59
	February-July 1666: Natural philosophy: practical and theoretical (Iatrochemical preparations; barometrical observations; Respirationis Usus)	66
3	EXETER HOUSE, LONDON (• 666-1675): "ONE ACCIDENT IN MY LIFE"	70
	July 1666-May 1667: "Falling into a great man's family" (Ashley Cooper; dispensation from holy orders; offer of preferment; Elinor Parry; "Morbus"; iatrochemistry)	70
	June-December 1667: "With my Lord Ashley as a man at home" (Exeter House; Sydenham; "Essay concerning Toleration")	78
	January-December 1668: "Turning his thoughts another way" (Ashley's operation; "Anatomie"; interest rates)	86
	January 1669-December 1670: "A love of all sorts of useful knowledge" (Elinor Parry; "Constitutions of Carolina"; match-making; De Arte Medica \ ill-health)	89
	January-September 1671: "What I think about the human understanding" (Anthony Ashley Cooper the third; De Intellectu Humano)	97
	September-December 1671: "Profitable to the life of man" (De Intellectu , a second draft; Royal Society)	105
	January 1672-November 1675: "That tether which certainly ties us" (Peerage for Ashley; colonial investments; short visit to France; Secretary of Presentations; Secretary and Treasurer of Council of Trade; interest rates; an annuity; Bachelor of Medicine; license to practise; medical Studentship)	110
4	FRANCE (NOVEMBER 1675-MAY 1679)	119
	November 1675-January 1676: Paris to Montpellier	119
	January 1676-March 1677: Montpellier	125

March 1677-July 1678: Paris	134
July-October 1678: An extended "little Tour" of France	142
November 1678-May 1679: Paris	149
THANET HOUSE AND LONDON (MAY 1679-SEPTEMBER 1683)	153
May-December 1679: "Things in such confusion" (Shaftesbury as Lord President; Popish Plot; standardisation of length; correspondence with Toinard)	153
December 1679-April 1680: "A condition as might make your friends apprehensive" ("Observations upon the growth and culture of vines")	159
April-November 1680: "Fortune continues to cross all my plans" (Exclusion Bill; correspondence with Toinard)	162
November 1680-March 1681: "1641 is come again" (The Unreason- ableness of Separation- , Oxford Parliament)	166
April 1681-April 1683: "Not a word ever drops from his mouth" (The King clamps down; Shaftesbury arrested; Colledge's trial; Damaris Cudworth; Edward Clarke; Shaftesbury dies)	171
Two Treatises of Government	181
April-September 1683: "The times growing now troublesome" (Rye House plot; secretive movements; hastily to Holland)	190
HOLLAND AND THE UNITED PROVINCES (1683-1688)	197
September 1683-October 1684: "Much in my chamber alone" (Medical friends; Limborch; indexing notes; tour of the Provinces; Labadists; educational "Directions")	197
November-December 1684: "Suspected to be ill-affected" (Expulsion from Studentship)	207
December 1684-September 1685: "To be seized and banished" (Under suspicion; Monmouth's rebellion; in hiding)	216
September 1685: "What God has thought fit" ("de Intellectu" (draft C), book one (innate ideas); book two (origin of ideas); promise of pardon; still suspected)	223
September 1685-September 1686: "That faith which works, not by force, but by love" (Epistola de Tolerantia ; "Method of Commonplacing";

more thoughts on education; no longer listed; Yonges' visit; Thomas visits)	229
September-December 1686: "Changing one's abode is inconvenient" ("de Intellectu", books three (words), and four (knowledge))	239
December 1686-March 1688: "Busy as a hen with one chick" (Continued concern for safety; Furly; van Helmont; ill; rumours of pardon; the Essay abridged)	248
March 1688-January 1689: "An expected invasion" (Thomas visits; Stringer and a portrait; Clarke visits; William of Orange goes over; return to England)	255
LONDON (FEBRUARY 1689-DECEMBER 1690)	266
February-December 1689: Anus mirabilis (Offers of public position; Epistola ; Commissioner of Appeals; petition for Studentship; another quarrel with Stringer; Letter concerning Toleration ; Two Treatises ; Essay concerning Human Understanding ; Newton)	266
January-September 1690: Disputes and disagreements (Tyrrell and the Essay ; anonymity and acrimony; "A call to the nation for unity"; Proast and "A second letter concerning toleration")	279
July-December 1690: Questions of economics (Interest rates; clipped coins; plans to go to Holland)	290
OATES (JANUARY 1691-DECEMBER 1695)	298
January-December 1691: "The seraglio at Oates" (Removal to Oates; a return to natural philosophy?; Bath and Somerset; Some Considerations of... Money ; "multiplying gold"; Aesop's Fables)	298
January-December 1692: "You won't be well if you stay in town" (Overseeing Edward Clarke; Newton and transmutation; Third Letter concerning Toleration ; William Molyneux; Boyle's History of the Air , petition for Council of Trade salary; a "dry club"; disagreement with Norris; "Answer to Mr Norris"; liberty of will)	307
January-December 1693: "It were better if you were dead" (Petition to Treasury; "Short observations on ... coining silver money"; preparation for second edition of Essay ; Malebranche and "Seeing all things in God"; personal identity; Some Thoughts concerning Education ; liberty of the will again)	321

	January-December 1694: "Discourse on matters of importance" (van Helmont visits; Essay , second edition; Thomas dies; Bank of England; a financial consultant; the "College")	333
	January 1695: "Wherein the Christian faith consists" (The Reasonableness of Christianity , natural law and revelation)	336
	January-August 1695: "Not one word of Socinianism" (Licensing Act; the Essay abridged; recoinage recommended; a water drinker; Greenwich Hospital; Edwards and Socinianism; Reasonableness of Christianity vindicated)	344
	August-December 1695: "Of great use to your country" (Further currency considerations; a Latin translator for the Essay)	355
9	"A GENTLEMAN'S DUTY" (DECEMBER 1695-MARCH 1700)	361
	December 1695-November 1696: "Your country calls for your help" (Commissioner for Trade; recoinage; Leibniz)	361
	November 1696-February 1697: "A clipped Christianity" (Controversy with Stillingfleet; Second Vindication of the Reasonableness of Christianity ; Samuel Bold)	370
	February 1697-January 1698: "Told I must prepare myself for a storm" (Reply to Stillingfleet's answer to his Letter , "Conduct of the Understanding"; answer to Burnet; Pierre Coste; linen manufacture; employment of the poor; Edwards's Brief Vindication)	384
	January-July 1698: "At the jaws of death" (Reply to Stillingfleet's answer to his Second Letter , Hudde and the uniqueness of God)	400
	July-December 1698: "Nothing ever escapes you" (Meeting with Molyneux; meeting with Bold; Peter King; "Elements of Natural Philosophy")	412
	January 1699-March 1700: "A too long stay in town" ("Association of Ideas"; "Enthusiasm")	415
10	"LAYING DOWN HIS PLACE" (MARCH 1700-OCTOBER 1704)	420
	March 1700-March 1701: "Nothing but what I ought and do expect" (Retirement from Board of Trade; bad legs; the question of liberty)	420

March 1701-December 1702: "The Ornament of this Age" (Deafness; Catherine Trotter; "Directions for Reading"; "Miracles")	426
January-December 1703: "New life" (Anthony Collins; Aesop's Fables ; St Paul's Epistles)	436
January-August 1704: "At the end of my day when my sun is setting" (Oxford book ban; a new carriage; St Paul's Epistles)	445
August-October 1704: "A happy life, but nothing but vanity" (A Fourth Letter for Toleration -, King's marriage; death)	454
Expository Notes	461
Bibliographical Notes	471
Abbreviations and References	505
Index	517

Illustrations follow page xviii.