

Film and the Law

The Cinema of Justice

Steve Greenfield
Guy Osborn and
Peter Robson

•HART-
PUBLISHING

OXFORD AND PORTLAND, OREGON
2010

CONTENTS

Preface	v
1. Film and the Law: an Orientation	1
Law and Film Scholarship.....	1
Methodology.....	3
Language.....	8
Empirical Work and Causation.....	10
The Heterogeneous Goals of Law and Popular Culture.....	11
2. The Penetration of Law and Film	13
The Framework of Legal Education.....	13
Law and Context—the Role of the Socio-legal Imagination.....	15
Popular Culture and Law and Popular Culture.....	16
The Use(s) of Film.....	21
Film and Law Teaching.....	23
Law and Film Courses.....	27
3. Theoretical underpinnings and physical boundaries—defining the territory	32
The Dramatic Dimension of Law.....	34
Visuality and Image.....	36
The Cult of the Robe: Dress and Appearance in Film.....	38
Defining the Parameters of Law and Film: Academic Approaches.....	41
Inside the Courtroom.....	45
The Phases of Law.....	47
Conclusion.....	48
4. Strictly Courtroom? Law Film and Genre	51
Critical Aspects of the Courtroom Drama.....	52
Plot Conventions.....	53
Laughing at the Law.....	58
Genre Theory.....	61
5. The British Law Film: From Genre to Iconography	68
Britishness and Film: Protection and Representations.....	69
British Law Films.....	73
The Iconography of Law.....	76
Conclusion.....	78

Contents

6. Military Justice on Screen	80
Filming Military Justice.....	82
The Scapegoat.....	85
The Courtroom Drama in Uniform.....	88
Justice and Legality in the Military Context.....	90
Conclusion.....	92
7. Assessing Cinematic Lawyers (I): Heroes and Villains	94
The Heroic Lawyer: When Atticus Met Lincoln.....	95
Flawed Characters?.....	100
Assessing the Good/Bad Categories.....	102
8. Assessing Cinematic Lawyers (II): Alternative Categorisations	111
Introduction.....	111
Alternative Categorisations.....	117
Conclusion.....	121
9. Missing in Action (I): Judges	124
The Invisible Judge.....	125
The Corrupt Judge.....	128
The Troubled Judge.....	129
The Comic Judge.....	130
The Political Judge.....	131
Judges as Protagonists—the Judge under the Spotlight.....	133
10. Missing in Action (II): Juries	144
The Importance of the Jury.....	144
Jury Selection.....	146
Jury Deliberation.....	151
The Compensatory Jury.....	153
Conclusion.....	154
11. Fact, Fiction and the Cinema of Justice (I): Presumed Accurate?	157
Facts, Cases and Lawyers.....	164
Documentary Films.....	166
Developments in the 21st Century.....	168
Who Owns History?.....	170
Whose Story?.....	172
Conclusion.....	174
12. Fact, Fiction and the Cinema of Justice (II): Specificities	177
Common Themes.....	177
Let Him Have It (1991).....	177
In the Name of the Father (1993).....	179
The Hurricane (1999).....	181
Amistad(1997).....	183

Contents

A Civil Action (1998).....	185
Erin Brockovich (2000).....	191
Evelyn (2002).....	193
The Exorcism of Emily Rose (2005).....	194
13. Love Vigilantes: Private Eyes and Beyond	197
Vigilantes.....	198
Private Eyes.....	201
Defining the Private Eye.....	202
The Private Eye: Justice and Politics.....	204
The Private Eye in Film.....	206
The Existential Hero.....	209
Fighting Evil.....	211
TheStylites.....	212
The Return to the Politics of Everyday Life and Existential Angst.....	215
The Postmodern Investigator.....	216
Conclusion.....	220
14. Playing with a Different Sex	222
Gender in Film.....	223
Gender and the Law in the Cinema.....	224
The Visibility of Female Lawyers.....	227
Narrative Tropes and Female Lawyers.....	228
Subservience in Action.....	229
Emotional Dependence.....	230
The Repressed Daughter.....	233
Professional Inadequacy.....	235
The Changing Role of Female Lawyers.....	237
The Woman Lawyer as a Discreet Object of Desire?.....	239
Competent Counsel in US Films of the 1980s.....	240
The Woman Lawyer in the Supporting Cast.....	242
The Demise of the Political.....	242
Rebecka Martinsson: An Alternative Role for Women Lawyers?.....	244
The Politics of Gender in Legal Films.....	245
Gay, Lesbian and Bisexual Portrayals.....	249
15. Minority Report? Ethnicity in Film	254
Ethnic Minority Representation in Film.....	254
Race in British Film: The Imperialist Era.....	257
Foreignness on the Home Front.....	259
The Question of Integration.....	260
The Black and Asian British Experience.....	263
Ethnicity and the Law Film.....	268

Contents

Ethnic Minority Lawyers.....	270
Conclusion.....	274
16. Future Trajectories and Possibilities.....	276
Sometimes I, Fantasize: Celestial Justice.....	277
Cyber Justice.....	282
Safe European Home? Law and Film in Europe.....	285
France.....	286
Germany.....	287
Spain.....	288
Current Debates.....	292
Future Directions.....	296
 Bibliography.....	 300
 Index	 329