

The banking and credit system of the USSR

O. KUSCHPETA

Tilburg School of Economics,
Social Sciences and Law,
the Netherlands

*oJAartiiMs£Nijhoff Social Sciences Division
Leiden| Boston 1978*

Contents

Preface / VII

- 1. Definition of the problem and introductory remarks / 1
 - 1.1. Definition of the problem / 1
 - 1.2. Marxist doctrine and the October Revolution / 5
 - 1.3. Three sources of basic doctrine underlying Soviet Socialist society / 7
 - 1.4. Basic characteristics of the Soviet economic system / 9
 - 1.5. Monetary function in the economic system / 12

- 2. The development and final state of the banking system in Russia under the Tsars / 15
 - 2.1. Introduction / 15
 - 2.2. The reform of 1861 – the birth of the modern system / 16
 - 2.3. The development of the private banks / 17
 - 2.4. Agricultural banks and other credit institutions after the reform of 1861 / 18
 - 2.5. The banking system after the reform of 1895-1897 / 18
 - 2.6. General characteristics of the banking system prior to the October Revolution / 19

- 3. The birth of the banking and credit system of the USSR / 23
 - 3.1. Introduction / 23
 - 3.2. The merging of all banks into one large clearing centre / 24
 - 3.3. Money and credit during the civil war period / 26
 - 3.4. The influence of the New Economic Policy (N.E.P.) on the revival of the banks / 28
 - 3.5. The monetary reform of 1922-1924 / 30
 - 3.6. The banking system during the first N.E.P. period / 33
 - 3.7. The second N.E.P. period: Adaptation of the banking system to the planned economy / 37

- 3.8. The reform of the credit system and the completion of the organization of the banks under Stalin 1930-1932 / 39
- 3.9. The monetary reform of 1947 and other measures to stabilize the ruble / 43
- 3.10. The modifications of the banking system under Khrushchev / 45
- 3.11. Conclusion / 46

- 4. The current credit and banking system of the USSR and its functions / 49
 - 4.1. Introduction / 49
 - 4.2. The effect of the economic reforms of Kosygin on the banking and credit system / 49
 - 4.3. The credit institutions / 54
 - 4.3.1. The Gosbank / 54
 - 4.3.2. The savings banks / 58
 - 4.3.3. The Vneshtorgbank / 61
 - 4.3.4. The Stroibank / 62
 - 4.3.5. The banks abroad / 66
 - 4.3.6. The other institutions / 71
 - 4.4. The Gosbank, payments and clearing / 72
 - 4.4.1. The issue of rubles / 74
 - 4.4.2. The management of the cash flow / 75
 - 4.4.3. The management of the 'deposit' or 'transfer' money circulation (Giro) / 76
 - 4.5. Short-term banking credit / 80
 - 4.6. Long-term banking credit / 84
 - 4.7. State loans / 87
 - 4.8. The other forms of credit / 89
 - 4.9. The Soviet banks and the Comecon banks / 91
 - 4.10. Conclusion / 93

- 5. The banking and credit system and the general economic system / 95
 - 5.1. Introduction / 95
 - 5.2. The economy and State organization of the USSR / 95
 - 5.2.1. The administrative territorial divisions of the USSR and the economy / 96
 - 5.2.2. The unity of power / 96

- 5.2.3. The principle of democratic centralization / 97
- 5.2.4. Edinonachalie / 99
- 5.3. A short sketch of the institutional structure of the Soviet economy and the position of the banks therein / 99
 - 5.3.1. The Council of Ministers of the USSR / 101
 - 5.3.2. The Council of Ministers of a Soviet Republic / 104
 - 5.3.3. All-Union models of economic management / 104
 - 5.3.4. Republic models of economic management / 105
 - 5.3.5. The position of the banks in the institutional structure / 106
 - 5.3.6. Recapitulation / 106
- 5.4. The position of the USSR enterprises in the current economic system / 107
- 5.5. The organization of Soviet industrial management after 1975 / 110
 - 5.5.1. The new organization chart / 111
 - 5.5.2. Union (Republic) / industry / associations (promyshlennoe obedinenie) / 112
 - 5.5.3. Production societies (proizvodstvennoe obedinenie) / 114
 - 5.5.4. The consequences of the re-organization for the banks / 115
 - 5.5.5. Evaluation / 115
- 5.6. General characteristics of Soviet State finances / 116
- 5.7. The financing of enterprises / 120
 - 5.7.1. Capital goods and the financing thereof / 120
 - 5.7.2. Operational results / 121
 - 5.7.3. The balance sheet / 123
 - 5.7.4. Final remarks / 126
- 5.8. The organizational structure of the Soviet finances and the inter-relationships of their components / 127
- 5.9. The banking and credit system in the Soviet finances / 130
 - 5.9.1. The re-distribution of the national revenue / 132
 - 5.9.2. The investments / 135
 - 5.9.3. The financing of the liquid assets of enterprises / 136
- 5.10: Recapitulation and conclusions / 138

- 6. The role of the banks in the planned management of the Soviet economy / 141
 - 6.1. Introduction / 141
 - 6.2. Centralized planning and the role of the banks / 143

- 6.3. The relationships between credit plans, cash plan and the financial plan / 146
- 6.4. The credit plans / 150
 - 6.4.1. The short-term credit plan of the Gosbank / 152
 - 6.4.2. The short-term credit plan of the Stroibank / 155
 - 6.4.3. The long-term credit plan of the Gosbank / 156
 - 6.4.4. The long-term credit plan of the Stroibank / 158
- 6.5. The planning of the monetary circulation (cash flow) / 160
 - 6.5.1. The planning principles / 161
 - 6.5.2. Calculation of the money supply / 164
 - 6.5.3. The balance of the population's income and expenditures / 166
 - 6.5.4. The Gosbank's cash plan / 168
 - 6.5.5. Conclusions / 172
- 6.6. The supervisory tasks of the Soviet banks / 176
 - 6.6.1. Gosbank supervision over expenditures for wages / 177
 - 6.6.2. Control exerted via the ruble / 180
 - 6.6.3. Sanctions / 182
- 6.7. The bank interest / 184
- 6.8. Soviet currency and the international economic relations of the USSR / 189
 - 6.8.1. The State monopoly on currency / 190
 - 6.8.2. The Foreign Currency Treasury / 191
 - 6.8.3. The ruble and the 'socialist worldmarket' / 192
 - 6.8.4. The ruble and the 'capitalist worldmarket' / 194
 - 6.8.5. The currency plan / 195
 - 6.8.6. Conclusions / 197
- 6.9. Recapitulation / 199

- 7. Critical closing considerations / 203
 - 7.1. Introduction / 203
 - 7.2. The genesis of the Soviet banking and credit system / 204
 - 7.3. Money and the socialist economy of the Soviet type / 208
 - 7.3.1. The views of Marx and Engels / 208
 - 7.3.2. The views of Lenin / 211
 - 7.3.3. The need for money in a planned economy of the Soviet type / 213
 - 7.3.4. The nature and functions of Soviet money / 218
 - 7.3.5. Conclusions / 222

- 7.4. The economic order of the USSR and the banking and credit system / 222
- 7.4.1. The economic order of the USSR / 223
- 7.4.2. Two methods of mobilizing and distributing monetary means / 229
- 7.4.3. The State Budget / 230
- 7.4.4. Credit / 232
- 7.4.5. The function of the credit institution and the economic order / 236
- 7.4.6. Conclusions / 237
- 7.5. Theory and practice / 239
- 7.5.1. General principles / 239
- 7.5.2. The principles of the monetary and the banking policy / 242
- 7.5.3. Practice / 243
- 7.5.4. Closing remarks / 245
- 7.6. Concluding paragraph / 246
- 7.6.1. Conclusions / 247
- 7.6.2. General appraisal / 248
- 7.6.3. Suggestions / 251

Summary / 256

Bibliography / 257

Index / 275