Frank Dietrich, Hartmut Kliemt and Michael Imhoff (eds.)
MICRO ALLOCATION OF MEDICAL RESOURCES. Economics and Ethics

HOMO OECONOMICUS XIX(1), 2002
Accedo Verlagsgesellschaft, München/Munich
Part I: German Practices of Microallocation

Giinther Feicht
Daily Dermatology: a Dermatologist’s Description of his "German" Experience... 11

Gerhard Brenner
Budgets, Control and Outpatient Treatment - Economic Comment on Giinther Feicht ................................................................. 24

Anton Leist
Rationing in Practice - Ethical Comment on Giinther Feicht ................................................................. 28

Tibor Horvath
Practices of Microallocation in German Hospitals I ......................................................... 31

Frank Daumann
The Role of Financing Regimes in Inpatient Care - Economic Comment on Tibor Horvath ......................................................................................... 41

Felix Thiele
Who Should Be the Principal Agent in Microallocation? - Ethical Comment on Tibor Horvath ......................................................................................... 44

Eckhard Nagel
Practices of Microallocation in German Hospitals II ........................................................................ 48

Hartmut Kliemt
Standardization of Health Care Provision as a Non-medical Task - Economic Comment on Eckhard Nagel ........................................................................ 58

Wolfgang Lenzen
Is there a "Right to Health"? - Ethical Comment on Eckhard Nagel ........................................................................ 62

Part II: Practices of Microallocation in the US and the UK

Paul Williamson
Practitioners as Gate Keepers in an Advanced Country: American HMO I - The Physician's Perspective ........................................................................ 71

Georg Marckmann
Who Shall Bear the Burden of Cost Containment? - Economic and Ethical Comment on Paul Williamson ........................................................................ 79
John Powell
Practitioners as Gate Keepers in an Advanced Country: American HMO II -
The Manager's Perspective........................................................................86

Michael Arnold
General Practitioners as Gatekeepers - Economic Comment on John Powell........97

Weyma Ltibbe
HMO's Between Over- and Underprovision of Services - Ethical Comment on
John Powell.................................................................................................102

Valerie Day
Practitioners as Gate Keepers in an Advanced Country: UKNHS - The Manager's Perspective..................................................................................105

Friedrich Breyer
The Proper Role of Health Care in Free Society - Economic Comment on
Valerie Day..................................................................................................113

Frank Dietrich
Against Schematic Equality - Ethical Comment on Valerie Day......................115

Part III: Microallocation and Process Control

Michael Imhoff
Medical Practices as Processes......................................................................121

Dominik Graf von Stillfried
Toward a Proper Role for Actuarial Risk - Economic Comment on
Michael Imhoff............................................................................................137

Thomas Spitzley
On Treating Medical Practices as Process - Ethical Comment on
Michael Imhoff............................................................................................144

List of Contributors......................................................................................151