

The Economics of Knowledge Sharing

A New Institutional Approach

Edited by

Ernst Helmstadter

*Research Professor of Economics, Institute of Work and Technology, Gelsenkirchen, Science Centre of North-Rhine
Westphalia, Germany*

NEW HORIZONS IN INSTITUTIONAL AND EVOLUTIONARY ECONOMICS

Edward Elgar

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of figures		vii
List of tables	•	viii
List of contributors	–	ix
Acknowledgments	.	x
1 Introduction		1
Ernst Helmstadter and Brigitta Widmaier
PART I KNOWLEDGE SHARING INSTITUTIONS
2 The institutional economics of knowledge sharing: basic issues		11
Ernst Helmstadter
3 New institutional economics and knowledge sharing		39
Rudolf Richter
PART II KNOWLEDGE AND COGNITION
4 Motivation, learning, knowledge sharing and division of labour		51
Gisela Kubon-Gilke
5 Processes of knowledge sharing: from cognitive psychology to economics		74
Guido Biinstorf
6 The cognitive basis of institutions: an evolutionary perspective		100
Brian J. Loasby

PART III THE KNOWLEDGE ISSUE IN ECONOMICS

- 7 Human capital, knowledge and knowledge sharing:
a view from the history of economic thoughts 121
Jochen Schumann
- 8 Knowledge, knowledge sharing and convention
in Keynes' thinking 129
Elke Muchlinski

PART IV THE REGULATIONS FOR DIGITAL TECHNOLOGY

- 9 The internet: universal information infrastructure for the emerging knowledge society 147
Peter Brb'dner
- 10 Digitalization and regulation: the German case 170
3. Philipp Siemer
- Name index* 185
- Subject index* 191