

The Half-Life of Policy Rationales

How New Technology Affects Old Policy Issues

EDITED BY

Fred E. Foldvary AND Daniel B. Klein

A CATO INSTITUTE Book

New York University Press

NEW YORK AND LONDON

Contents

Acknowledgments	be
Introduction: The Half-Life of Policy Rationales: How New Technology Affects Old Policy Issues Fred E. Foldvary and Daniel B. Klein	1
PART i Metering, Excluding, and Charging	19
1 Technology, Marine Conservation, and Fisheries Management Michael De Alessi	21
2 The Lighthouse as a Private-Sector Collective Good Fred E. Foldvary	38
3 Motorway Financing and Provision: Technology Favors a New Approach Peter Samuel	47
4 Buying Time at the Curb Donald C. Shoup	60
5 Fencing the Airshed: Using Remote Sensing to Police Auto Emissions Daniel B. Klein	86
PART ii Quality Assurance and Consumer Protection	107
6 Technology and the Case for Free Banking David Friedman and Kerry Macintosh	109

7	Consumer Protection Regulation and Information on the Internet .John C. Moorhouse	i	125
8	Medical Licensing: Existing Public Policy and Technological Change Shirley V. Svorny		144
PART III Natural Monopoly?			159
9	Technology and Electricity: Overcoming the Umbilical Mentality Alvin Lowi Jr. and Clyde Wayne Crews Jr.		161
10	Avoiding the Grid: Technology and the Decentralization of Water Alvin Lowi Jr.		184
11	Technological Change and the Case for Government Intervention in Postal Services Rick Geddes		208
PART iv Other Areas of Policy			225
12	The Entrepreneurial Community in Light of Advancing Business Practices and Technologies Spencer Heath MacCallum		227
13	Technology and the Protection of Endangered Species Richard L. Stroup and Jane S. Shaw		243
	About the Contributors		257
	Index		263