

Inside China's Automobile Factories

The Politics of Labor and Worker Resistance

LU ZHANG

Temple University

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of figures	page viii
List of tables	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
List of abbreviations	xv
1 Introduction	I
2 Industrial restructuring and labor force transformation in the Chinese automobile industry	23
3 The labor market and social composition in the automobile industry	49
4 Organization of production and factory social order	82
5 Hegemonic consent? Formal workers' compliance and resistance	114
6 Temporary workers' struggles and the paradox of labor force dualism	147
7 The State's response: The making of Labor Contract Law and boundary-drawing strategy	173
8 Conclusion	183
Methodological appendix	196
Bibliography	207
Index	228