

The New American Cultural Sociology

EDITED BY
Philip Smith

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Notes on contributors	page ix
Preface	xiii

Philip Smith. The new American cultural sociology: an introduction	1
---	---

PART I: Culture as text and code

Introduction	15
1 Richard Harvey Brown. Textuality and the postmodern turn in sociological theory	19
2 Jeffrey C. Alexander. The computer as sacred and profane	29
3 Steven Seidman. AIDS and the discursive construction of homosexuality	47
4 Robert Wuthnow. Fundamentalism and liberalism in public religious discourse	60
5 Anne Kane. Analytic and concrete forms of the autonomy of culture	73

PART II: The production and reception of culture

Introduction	89
6 Michele Lamont. The reception of Derrida's work in France and America	93
7 Nicola Beisel. Censorship, audiences, and the Victorian nude	109
8 Wendy Griswold. The Devil, social change, and Jacobean theatre	126
9 Gaye Tuchman and Nina Fortin. Victorian women writers and the prestige of the novel	141

- 10 Robin Wagner-Pacifici and Barry Schwartz. The ambiguous and contested meanings of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial 151

PART III: Culture in action

- Introduction 167
- 11 Ann Swidler. Culture and social action 171
- 12 William H. Sewell, Jr. Culture, structure, agency, and transformation 188
- 13 William A. Gamson. Discourse, nuclear power, and collective action 202
- 14 Gary Alan Fine. Moral boundaries, leisure activities, and justifying fun 217
- 15 Calvin Morrill. Honor and conflict management in corporate life 230
- 16 Paul DiMaggio. The role of cultural capital in school success 260
- Index* 277