

Guinevere Liberty Nell

The Driving Force of the Collective

Post-Austrian Theory in Response to Israel Kirzner

palgrave
macmillan

CONTENTS

Part I The Character of Post-Austrian Economics	1
Collaborative Discovery and the Conversive Democratic Process: A Post-Austrian Approach	3
The Individualist Subjectivism of Austrian Economics	23
Subjectivism, Freedom, and Social-Interest	43
Part II The Democratic Process	61
The Limits of Democracy: The Real and the Imagined	63
The Ethics of Competition and Cooperation	77
Some Ethical Insights on the Nature of Profits	99
Coordination and Collaboration: Agreement as a Criterion for Democratic Goodness	119

Part III Studies in the Mises-Hayek Legacy	147
Reflections of the Misesian Legacy of Hyper-individualism	149
Knowledge and the Austrian Understanding of the Democratic System	159
Culture, Hayek, and the Idea of Plan-Coordination	169
Part IV Studies in the Theory of Conversation	183
Conversation and the Democratic Process: Some Doctrinal Touchstones	185
The Driving Force of the Collective: The Idea of "Conversation" in Contemporary Economic Theory and in the Post-Austrian Theory of the Democratic Process	203
Misallocation and/or Misunderstood: A Reconsideration of the Misesian Calculation Problem	221
Society, the Collective, and Economic "Imperialism"	243
Appendix 1	259
Appendix 2	267
Appendix 3	273
Index	285