

Macroeconomic Policies for Sustainable Growth

Analytical Framework and Policy Studies of Brazil and Chile

---

Mohan Munasinghe

Munasinghe Institute for Development (MIND), Sri Lanka and Yale University, USA

Raul O’Ryan

University of Chile (UC), Chile

Ronaldo Seroa da Motta

Research Institute for Applied Economics (IPEA), Brazil

Carlos de Miguel

UN Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC), Chile

Carlos Young

Federal University of Rio de Janeiro (UFRJ), Brazil

Sebastian Miller

University of Chile (UC), Chile

Claudio Ferraz

University of California, USA

Edward Elgar

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Research supported by the World Bank, Washington DC, and the Munasinghe Institute for Development (MIND), Colombo.

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	vii
Abbreviations and acronyms	viii
Preface	ix

PART I: OVERVIEW

1. Historical evolution of ideas	3
2. Framework for analysis	26

PART II: BRAZIL CASE STUDY

3. Production, consumption and the environment in Brazil	49
4. Trade and the environment: linkages between competitiveness and the industrial pollution in Brazil	65
5. Consumption patterns, income distribution and the environment in Brazil	119
6. Agriculture expansion and deforestation in the Brazilian Amazon, 1980–95	163
7. Summary of main findings in Brazil	196

PART III: CHILE CASE STUDY

8. Introduction to computable general equilibrium (CGE) models	207
9. The ECOGEM general equilibrium model for Chile	227
10. Economic, social and environmental status in Chile	239
11. Policy applications	297