

1	Introduction: Payback begins here	1
	Is the book for you?	3
	Who should read the book?	3
	Do I need to be Einstein to understand it?	4
	Marketing marketing	4
	The plan of the book	6

mm Is IS MARKETING PROFITABLE?

2	Marketing's midlife crisis	11
	Is my marketing department like this?	12
	Can marketing be trusted with money?	15
	Healing marketing of its payback myopia	18
	How much is at stake?	20
	The smouldering feud: financial accountability in marketing	22
	Why change?	23
	Key points	25
3	Demonstrating success	27
	Is there a direct link between marketing and business results?	28
	How should you evaluate your marketing?	31
	Marketing success: a damn good story	32
	Marketing's magic numbers	35
	Marketing payback - the final financial frontier	37
	Ways of improving marketing profitability	40
	Why only profit will do	42
	What sort of profit is best?	45
	Key points	53
4	The laws of marketing	55
	What are empirical generalizations?	56
	Why are empirical generalizations important?	58
	Where do empirical generalizations come from?	59
	Customer satisfaction and loyalty	61

Customer Relationship Management (CRM)	62
Branding	63
Distribution and availability	64
Sales promotion	65
Price	66
Advertising effects	67
Personal selling	68
Innovation and new products	69
Key points	70
Measuring how marketing really works	71
Why you must measure your 'customers	72
What expert help do you need?	73
Describing and predicting customer responses	74
Branding and the supply chain	85
How well does branding theory measure up?	86
How good is your market research?	90
An ideal basket of measures	94
Key points	102
Tracking trends and forecasting futures	105
Can you really make accurate sales forecasts?	106
Cutting through the jargon	108
Patterns in data	109
Forecasting methodology decision tree	111
Judgemental modelling	112
Statistical modelling	115
Econometric modelling	115
The process of econometric modelling	118
Integrated forecasting and predictive modelling in action	126
Key points	131
Avoiding decision traps	133
Decision making in the real world	134
Auditing and improving your decision analysis	135
Allocating analysis time and resources better	138
Overcoming the hurdles	140
Becoming a better judge	141

Becoming a better statistician	143
Seven habits of highly effective quantitative thinkers	145
Key points	149

8s SOLUTIONS TO COMMON PROBLEMS

8	Expenditure allocation	153
	The principles of expenditure allocation	154
	What exactly do we mean, by 'allocation'?	158
	Traditional 'top-down' approaches	161
	The 'above-the-line' and 'below-the-line' expenditure split	163
	Expenditure strategy research	164
	Starting from the brand: 'bottom-up' approaches	166
	Techniques for optimizing expenditure allocation	169
	Optimizing the right variable	171
	Optimizing expenditure for a single brand	172
	Optimizing expenditure for a portfolio	175
	Key points	181
9	Brand identity changes	183
	Branding basics	184
	What is brand identity?	186
	Diagnosing your brand identity problems	187
	Describing and measuring your brand identity changes	192
	Differentiation or salience?	197
	Researching your brand identity strategy	197
	Testing your brand identity decisions	206
	Tracking your brand identity	207
	Key points	209
10	Brand portfolio planning	211
	Stretching your brand portfolio	212
	Portfolio language and terminology	214
	Analyzing the effects of your portfolio decisions	218
	Researching your brand portfolio strategy	227
	Testing your brand portfolio decisions	238
	Tracking your brand portfolio	243
	Key points	245

11	Valuing brands	247
	The context for brand valuation	248
	Corporate reputation	249
	Company valuations	250
	Brand valuations	254
	Importance of brands as value drivers	254
	How are brands valued?	259
	Is brand valuation useful to you?	265
	Key points	266
12	Integrated marketing communications	267
	Objective and task frameworks	268
	Creative execution decisions and their effects	272
	Media decisions and their effects	276
	Tracking your marketing communications	282
	Modelling your marketing communications	285
	Calculating the payback from your marketing communications	290
	Key points	294
13	How pricing works	297
	The importance of pricing decisions	298
	Price elasticity and its limitations	299
	Optimum pricing	302
	Profit maximization compared with revenue maximization	304
	What about the competition?	306
	How do price promotions fit in?	309
	Key points	311
14	How promotions work	313
	Introduction	314
	Defining sales promotion	315
	What drives you to use promotions?	316
	A framework for evaluating promotions	316
	How can promotions affect your sales volumes?	318
	How can promotions affect your prices?	325
	How can promotions affect your costs?	330
	A framework for managing sales promotions	331
	Promotional research, testing and tracking	331
	Key points	335

15	Customer equity optimization	337
	What is customer equity optimization?	338
	How to account for the customer base	341
	How to align financial and customer accounting	345
	How to use the model to evaluate alternatives	350
	How to discover what maximizes profits	352
	Key points	357
16	Getting better value from marketing information	359
	Too much information, too little insight	360
	Where should you begin the diagnosis?	363
	Decision-problem diagnosis	366
	Insight-problem diagnosis	368
	Information-problem diagnosis	371
	Summarizing your diagnosis	373
	Visualizing your best solution	374
	Marketing information library	376
	People and processes	378
	Management tools and techniques	380
	Learning and culture change	382
	The case for change	383
	Key points	385

PART Hi: FINANCIAL PLANNING AND CONTROL

17	The number wizard's toolbox	389
	Why you must become a better model maker	390
	The perfect model and its structure	392
	Applications of modelling	395
	Modelling do's and don'ts	398
	Case study example	399
	Self-assessment exercise	403
	Key points	404
18	Marketing planning	405
	What is marketing planning?	406
	Establishing the planning timetable	408
	Step 1: Organizing the planning process	410
	Step 2: Assembling a fact base	412

Steps 3 and 4: Preparing the baseline forecast and options for investigation	/	416
Step 5: Constructing a marketing plan simulator		417
Step 6: Selecting the best plan		418
Step 7: Writing the plan report		421
Step 8: Getting approval		423
Key points		425
19 Better budgeting		427
An overview of the budget cycle		428
Transforming your budgeting process		431
Setting guidelines for budgeting		432
Analyzing marketing budgets		435
Linking progress to its sources		439
Choosing an appropriate level of detail		441
Allocating budgets to time periods		442
Presenting, revising and approving the budget		442
Should you bin your budget?		444
Key points		447
20 Marketing bookkeeping and accounting		449
The marketing shoebox		450
Getting started	•	453
Analyzing sales volumes and revenues		456
Calculating variable costs		457
Calculating fixed costs		458
Calculating marketing, accruals and commitments		459
Tracking marketing activities and associated costs		461
Key points		463
21 When results go wrong		465
Will management reporting alert you to a crisis?	•	466
Reporting against budget		468
Checking results for accuracy		469
Separating the variances into hierarchies of effects		471
Volume variances, time patterns and their sources		473
Grey areas in reconciling variances to sources		474

Product mix variance	475
Marketing expenditure variances, ratios and trade-offs	476
Responding to variances and maximizing profits	477
How corrective action should be selected	479
The trouble with traffic light reporting	479
Balancing the budget	480
Key points	482
22 Twenty things you'll do differently	485
References	488
Index	497