

Immigrants, Unions, and the New U.S. Labor Market

Immanuel Ness

Temple University Press

PHILADELPHIA

Contents

Preface	vii
1 Why New Immigrants Organize	1
2 The Political Economy of Transnational Labor in New York City: The Context for Immigrant Worker Militancy	13
3 Unions and Immigrant Worker Organizing: New Models for New Workers	40
4 Mexican Immigrants, Class Formation, and Union Organizing in New York's Greengrocery Industry	58
5 Francophone West African Supermarket Delivery Workers Autonomous Union Organizing Outside of a Union	96
6 Black-Car Drivers: Industrial Restructuring and New Worker Organizing	130
7 The Post—September 11 Economic Crisis and the Government Crackdown on Immigrant Workers	162
8 Parallel Organizing: Immigrants and Unions	181
Notes	197
References	205
Index	219