

Meg H. Brown

The Reception of Spanish American Fiction in West Germany 1981-1991

A Study of Best Sellers

MAX NIEMEYER VERLAG TUBINGEN

1994

Table of Contents

Introduction	1
Part I
Chapter 1 Best Sellers	15
1.1 Definitions of "Best Seller"	16
1.2 Spiegel/Buchreport Best Seller List	22
1.3 Interaction Between the Best Seller and Society	23
Chapter 2 Spanish American Best Sellers Marketed in West Germany	27
2.1 "Creating" Best Sellers	27
2.2 The Spanish American Best Sellers	28
2.2.1 Gabriel Garcia Marquez	29
2.2.2 Isabel Allende	37
2.2.3 Angeles Mastretta	42
2.2.4 Mario Vargas Llosa	44
2.3 Commonality of Features	47
Chapter 3 A Shift in Reception of Spanish American Literature in West Germany	49
3.1 Lack of Reception	49
3.2 The Image of Latin America in the 1960s and 1970s ...	54
3.3 Lack of Preparation	55
3.4 Statistical Indications of Increased Reception	59
3.5 Spanish American Novels and the Best Seller List	68
3.6 Change in Preparation	71
3.7 The Image of Latin America in the 1980s	77
Chapter 4 Stimuli to Buy Books and the Role of the Critic ...	82
4.1 Motivational Factors	82
4.2 The Reviews and the Critics	88

Part II

Chapter 5 Politics, History, and Culture of Latin America	97
5.1 Politics and Sexual Politics	98
5.2 History	107
5.3 Culture	III
Chapter 6 Exoticism	119
Chapter 7 A Return to Story-Telling	132
Chapter 8 Polarity, Vitality, Humanity	147
8.1 Polarity and Extremes	149
8.2 Vitality, Color, Spontaneity	151
8.3 Humanity	155
Chapter 9 Epilogue	162
9.1 Extrinsic Factors	162
9.2 Intrinsic Factors	163
9.3 The Reviews	166
9.4 Assessment of Theories and Methodologies	167
9.5 Final Comments	170
Bibliography	175
Works Cited	175
Personal Contacts	180
Works Consulted	182