

A
V a a
I
V
1 H
¥ 3
H 3

n n
r r

A H D I S N A V 0 N 3 N i l 3 H I

O ★ V ★ W

C D N T E N

List of Maps	ix
Abbreviations and a Note About Spelling in the Text	ix

PAHT ONE — Lukewarm Believer

1 On the Cusp from Ancient to Modern (1893-1911; age 1-17)	3
2 Becoming a Communist (1911-20; age 17—26)	10
3 Lukewarm Believer (1920-25; age 26-31)	22
4 Rise and Demise in the Nationalist Party (1925-27; age 31-33)	36

PART TWD — Long March to Supremacy in the Party

5 Hijacking a Red Force and Taking Over Bandit Land (1927-28; age 33-34)	49
6 Subjugating the Red Army Supremo (1928-30; age 34-36)	64
7 Takeover Leads to Death of Second Wife (1927-30; age 33-36)	76
8 Bloody Purge Paves the Way for "Chairman Mao" (1929-31; age 35-37)	88
9 Mao and the First Red State (1931-34; age 37-40)	101
10 Troublemaker to Figurehead (1931-34; age 37—40)	no
n How Mao Got onto the Long March (1933-34; age 39-40)	120
12 Long March I: Chiang Lets the Reds Go (1934; age 40)	130
13 Long March II: The Power Behind the Throne (1934-35; age 40-41)	138

14 Long March III: Monopolising the Moscow Connection (1935; age 41)	157
PART THREE — Building His Power Base
15 The Timely Death of Mao's Host (1935-36; age 41-42)	171
16 Chiang Kai-shek Kidnapped (1935-36; age 41-42)	175
17 A National Player (1936; age 42-43)	184
18 New Image, New Life and New Wife (1937-38; age 43-44)	190
19 Red Mole Triggers China-Japan War (1937-38; age 43-44)	200
20 Fight Rivals and Chiang—Not Japan (1937-40; age 43-46)	210
21 Most Desired Scenario: Stalin Carves Up China with Japan (1939-40; age 45-46)	219
22 Death Trap for His Own Men (1940-41; age 46-47)	227
23 Building a Power Base Through Terror (1941-45; age 47-51)	236
24 Uncowed Opponent Poisoned (1941-45; age 47-51)	252
25 Supreme Party Leader at Last (1942-45; age 48-51)	264
PART FOUR — To Conquer China
26 "Revolutionary Opium War" (1937-45; age 43-51)	273
27 The Russians Are Coming! (1945-46; age 51-52)	281
28 Saved by Washington (1944-47; age 50-53)	293
29 Moles, Betrayals and Poor Leadership Doom Chiang (1945-49; age 51-55)	301
30 China Conquered (1946-49; age 52-55)	312
31 Totalitarian State, Extravagant Lifestyle (1949-53; age 55-59)	323
PART FIVE — Chasing a Superpower Dream
32 Rivalry with Stalin (1947-49; age 53-55)	337
33 Two Tyrants Wrestle (1949-50; age 55-56)	346
34 Why Mao and Stalin Started the Korean War (1949-50; age 55-56)	356
35 Mao Milks the Korean War (1950-53; age 56-59)	365
36 Launching the Secret Superpower Programme (1953-54; age 59-60)	380
37 War on Peasants (1953-56; age 59-62)	392
38 Undermining Khrushchev (1956-59; age 62-65)	404
39 Killing the "Hundred Flowers" (1957-58; age 63-64)	416

40 The Great Leap: "Half of China May Well Have to Die" (1958-61; age 64-67)	426
41 Defence Minister Peng's Lonely Battle (1958-59; age 64-65)	440
42 The Tibetans Rebel (1950-61; age 56-67)	453
43 Maoism Goes Global (1959-64; age 65-70)	458
44 Ambushed by the President (1961-62; age 67-68)	470
45 The Bomb (1962-64; age 68-70)	480
46 A Time of Uncertainty and Setbacks (1962-65; age 68-71)	486
PART SIX— Unsweet Revenge
47 A Horse-Trade Secures the Cultural Revolution (1965-66; age 71-72)	503
48 The Great Purge (1966-67; age 72-73)	514
49 Unsweet Revenge (1966-74; age 72-80)	528
50 The Chairman's New Outfit (1967-70; age 73-76)	537
51 A War Scare (1969-71; age 75-77)	548
52 Falling Out with Lin Biao (1970-71; age 76-77)	552
53 Maoism Falls Flat on the World Stage (1966-70; age 72-76)	565
54 Nixon: the Red-Baiter Baited (1970-73; age 76-79)	579
55 The Boss Denies Chou Cancer Treatment (1972-74; age 78-80)	592
56 Mme Mao in the Cultural Revolution (1966-75; age 72-81)	599
57 Enfeebled Mao Hedges His Bets (1973-76; age 79-82)	611
58 Last Days (1974-76; age 80-82)	624
Epilogue	631
Acknowledgements	633
List of Interviewees	637
Archives Consulted	651
Notes	653
Bibliography of Chinese-Language Sources	739
Bibliography of Non-Chinese-Language Sources	767
Index	791