

The Color of Credit

Mortgage Discrimination,
Research Methodology,
and Fair-Lending
Enforcement

Stephen Ross and John
Yinger

The MIT Press
Cambridge, Massachusetts
London, England

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
1 Introduction	1
2 The Mortgage Market and the Definition of Mortgage Lending Discrimination	15
3 A Conceptual Framework for Mortgage Lending	49
4 The Literature on Mortgage Lending Discrimination up to and Including the Boston Fed Study	95
5 Evaluating Criticisms of the Boston Fed Study	107
6 Accounting for Variation in Underwriting Standards across Lenders	169
7 Other Dimensions of Discrimination: Pricing, Redlining, and Cultural Affinity	213
8 Using Performance Data to Study Mortgage Discrimination: Evaluating the Default Approach	235
9 Lender Behavior, Loan Performance, and Disparate-Impact Discrimination	273
10 Implications for Fair-Lending Enforcement	313