

Crisis Prevention and Prosperity Management for the World Economy

R A L P H C . B R Y A N T

C
BROOKINGS INSTITUTION PRESS
Washington, D. C.

Contents

Introduction	1
Collective Surveillance: Rationale and Basic Questions	3
Venues for Intergovernmental Cooperation: General Considerations	7
Institutional Dimensions of Supranational Surveillance	10
Evolution of Consultative Groups	12
The International Monetary Fund:
The Dominant Venue for Surveillance	14
The IMF and Other International Organizations as
Traffic Monitors and Adjustment Referees	16
What Scope for Surveillance?	16
Surveillance of Exchange-Rate Arrangements	18
The IMF's Annual Article IV Consultations	20
Supranational Surveillance Conducted through Institutions
Other Than the IMF	23
Soft or Hard Guidelines?	26
Improving Analytical Foundations	30
Dissemination of Information: Transparency versus Confidentiality	34
The Individual Nation's Choice of Exchange Regime	39
Guidelines for Cross-Border Financial Transactions	49
Use of Financial Sector Assessments in Broader Surveillance of a Nation's Economic Policies	58
Explicit Coordination of National Macroeconomic Policies?	60

Evolution of Macro-Surveillance for the World Economy	62
Lending Intermediation among National Governments:
General Considerations	67
Lending Intermediation and Surveillance by the IMF	72
Should the IMF's Mandate Be Narrowed to Crisis Vulnerability?	75
Narrow the Focus of Surveillance? 75
Lend Only When Crisis Threatens? 77
Should the IMF's Mandate Be Broadened?	80
IMF Lending Facilities	87
What Range and Variety of Lending Facilities? 87
Issues about Interest Charges, Repayment Terms, and Conditions of Access 91
Prequalification for Emergency Lending? 95
Conditionality 98
IMF Lending: An Overview	104
The IMF: Whose Institution?	107
IMF Governance: Distribution of Quotas, Voting Power, and Constituencies	109
Quota Shares: Calibrated to Relative Position in the World Economy? 112
Adjustments in Quota Shares 121
Adjustment in Basic Votes 127
Adjustments in Executive Directors and Constituencies 130
The Problem of Europe and the European Union 132
Aggregate Size of IMF Resources	134
Concluding Perspective	143
Appendix Table. Distribution by Nation of Key Economic Variables	148
References	154
Index	165