

Gareth Morgan
IMAGES OF ORGANIZATION

New Edition of the International Best Seller

SAGE Publications
2455 Teller Road

Thousand Oaks, California 91320
E-mail: order@sagepub.com

Contents

PART I: AN OVERVIEW

1. INTRODUCTION 3

PART II: SOME IMAGES OF ORGANIZATION

2. MECHANIZATION TAKES COMMAND: ORGANIZATIONS AS MACHINES 11

Machines, mechanical thinking, and the rise of bureaucratic organization • 13

The origins of mechanistic organization • 15

Classical management theory: designing bureaucratic organizations • 18

Scientific management • 22

Strengths and limitations of the machine metaphor • 26

3. NATURE INTERVENES: ORGANIZATIONS AS ORGANISMS 33

Discovering organizational needs • 34

Recognizing the importance of environment: organizations as open systems • 39

Contingency theory: adapting organization to environment • 44

,The variety of the species • 50

Contingency theory: promoting organizational health and development • 56

Natural selection: the population-ecology view of organizations • 60

Organizational ecology: the creation of shared futures • 64

Strengths and limitations of the organismic metaphor • 66

4. LEARNING AND SELF-ORGANIZATION: ORGANIZATIONS AS BRAINS 73

Images of the brain • 74

Organizations as information processing brains • 78

Creating learning organizations • 83

 Cybernetics, learning, and learning to learn • 83

 Can organizations learn to learn? • 86

 Guidelines for "learning organizations" • 89

Organizations as holographic brains • 100

 Principles of holographic design • 102

Strengths and limitations of the brain metaphor • 115

5. CREATING SOCIAL REALITY: ORGANIZATIONS AS CULTURES 119

Culture and organization • 120

 Organization as a cultural phenomenon • 120

- Organization and cultural context • 122
- Corporate cultures and subcultures • 129
- Creating organizational reality • 138
 - Culture: rule following or enactment? • 139
 - Organization: the enactment of a shared reality • 141
- Strengths and limitations of the culture metaphor • 145

ft INTERESTS, CONFLICT, AND POWER:

ORGANIZATIONS AS POLITICAL SYSTEMS 153

- Organizations as systems of government • 155
- Organizations as systems of political activity • 160
 - Analyzing interests • 161
 - Understanding conflict • 167
 - Exploring power • 170
- Managing pluralist organizations • 199
- Strengths and limitations of the political metaphor • 208

7. EXPLORING PLATO'S CAVE:

ORGANIZATIONS AS PSYCHIC PRISONS 215

- The trap of favored ways of thinking • 216
- Organization and the unconscious • 220
 - Organization and repressed sexuality • 221
 - Organization and the patriarchal family • 226
 - Organization, death, and immortality • 228
 - Organization and anxiety • 230
 - Organization, dolls, and teddy bears • 236
 - Organization, shadow, and archetype • 239
 - The unconscious: a creative and destructive force • 243
- Strengths and limitations of the psychic prison metaphor • 245

8. UNFOLDING LOGICS OF CHANGE: ORGANIZATION AS FLUX AND TRANSFORMATION

Autopoiesis: rethinking relations with the environment - 253

Enactment as a form of narcissism: organizations interact with projections of themselves - 256

Identity and closure: egocentricism versus systemic wisdom - 258

Shifting "attractors": the logic of chaos and complexity - 261

Managing in the midst of complexity - 266

Loops not lines: the logic of mutual causality - 274

Contradiction and crisis: the logic of dialectical change - 283

Dialectical analysis: how opposing forces drive change - 285

The dialectics of management - 291

Strengths and limitations of the flux and transformation metaphor - 297

9: THE UGLY FACE: ORGANIZATIONS AS INSTRUMENTS OF DOMINATION

Organization as domination - 303

How organizations use and exploit their employees - 307

Organization, class, and control - 308

Work hazards, occupational disease, and industrial accidents - 314

Workaholism and social and mental stress - 320

Organizational politics and the radicalized organization - 323

Multinationals and the world economy - 326

The multinationals as world powers - 329

Multinationals: a record of exploitation? •	331
Strengths and limitations of the domination metaphor •	340

PART III: IMPLICATIONS FOR PRACTICE

10. THE CHALLENGE OF METAPHOR	347
Metaphors create ways of seeing and shaping organizational life •	349
Seeing, thinking, and acting in new ways •	351
11. READING AND SHAPING ORGANIZATIONAL LIFE	355
The Multicom case •	356
Interpreting Multicom •	359
Developing a detailed reading and "storyline" •	361
Multicom from another view •	369
"Reading" and emergent intelligence •	371
12. POSTSCRIPT	375
Bibliographic Notes	379
1: Introduction •	379
2: The machine metaphor •	381
3: The organismic metaphor •	386
4: The brain metaphor •	391
5: The culture metaphor •	397
6: The political metaphor •	401
7: The psychic prison metaphor •	405
8: The flux and transformation metaphor •	412

- 9: The domination metaphor • 421
- 10: The challenge of metaphor • 426
- 11: Reading and shaping organizational life • 427
- 12: Postscript • 430

Bibliography

Index

Acknowledgments

About the Author