

Underdevelopment

A CRITICAL SURVEY

D.K. FORBES

CROOM HELM
London & Sydney

CONTENTS

Tables

Acknowledgements

Introduction

PART ONE: GEOGRAPHY AND DEVELOPMENT	1
1. World Development in a Historical Context	3
The Origins of the Contemporary World	3
Towards a Multipolar World Economy	15
Conclusion	20
2. Geography and Imperialism, 1870-1930	23
Geography and the Sociology of Knowledge	23
Early Thoughts on Economic Development	26
The Institutionalisation of Geography	30
Geography in Schools and the Expansion of Geographical Societies	36
Conclusion	40
3. Geography, Area Studies and Development Studies	42
Colonial Geography	43
Regional Geography and Area Studies	48
Development Geography	55
Conclusion	61
PART TWO: THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF UNDERDEVELOPMENT	63
4. Theories of Imperialism and Underdevelopment	65
Capitalism and Imperh'ism	66
Theories of Dependency	67
Critics of Dependency Theories	70
Theories of Capitalist Crisis and the Industrialisation of the Periphery	77
Conclusion	89
5. Post-dependency Theories of Underdevelopment	92
The Articulation of Modes of Production	93
A Critique of the 'Articulation' Approach	97
Class and the Response to Economism	100
Conclusion	107

PART THREE: REGIONALISM, URBANISATION AND UNDERDEVELOPMENT	111
6. Social Theory and Regional Uneven Development	113
The Regional Question	114
Regional Political Economy	117
A Critique of Political Economy	123
Society, Space and Underdevelopment	126
Conclusion	140
7. Migration, Circulation and Urbanisation in Indonesia	142
Explanations of Migration and Circular Migration	144
Towards a Theory of Mobility	156
Migration and Circulation in South Sulawesi	160
Conclusion	162
8. Conflict and Class in the City	164
Employment and the Informal Sector	166
Class and Urban Petty Production	171
Conflict and Class	175
Conclusion	179
Conclusion	181
Bibliography	184
Index	209