

The Two Faces of Institutional Innovation

Promises and Limits of Democratic Participation in Latin America

---

Leonardo Avritzer

Federal University of Minas Gerais (UFMG), Brazil

ADVANCES IN CRITICAL POLICY STUDIES

 Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

---

List of tables	vi
Preface	vii
Introduction: The theory of institutional innovation – an overview	1
1 The two sides of institutional innovation	13
2 A second source of innovation: Critical public policy	31
3 Participatory budgeting as a democratic innovation: Origins, expansion and limits	46
4 Councils and monitoring in Latin America as forms of participatory accountability	75
5 Innovation in the wrong direction: The Brazilian and Colombian constitutional traditions, Ministério Público and the courts	100
Conclusion: The two faces of innovation	131
References	141
Index	165

Tables

---

1.1	The dynamics of participatory innovation	27
2.1	Types of innovation and conditions for their success	44
3.1	Overlapping elements for participatory budgeting success	57
3.2	General data on participation in São Paulo's participatory budgeting (PB)	60
3.3	Analysing participatory budgeting (PB) as a participatory innovation	66
3.4	Participatory budgeting in Buenos Aires	68
4.1	Number of councils in cities with more than 100 000 inhabitants	81
4.2	Comparison of cities with high, medium and low levels of participation	82
4.3	Presence of participatory interfaces in different areas of the Brazilian federal government, 2010	83
4.4	Proportion of public policy programmes that achieved at least 80 per cent of their original aims	84
4.5	Patterns of operation of participatory accountability institutions	94
5.1	Comparison of sentences before and after plea bargain agreements awarded under Operation Lava Jato	113
5.2	Treatment of Worker's Party (PT) and associates in Operation Lava Jato	115