

Growing Apart?

America and Europe in the Twenty-First Century

Edited by

JEFFREY KOPSTEIN

University of Toronto

SVEN STEINMO

European University Institute

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

Contributors		P^gs ix
Acknowledgments	i	xiii
Introduction: Growing Apart? America and Europe in the Twenty-First Century Sven Steinmo and Jeffrey Kopstein		i
1 The Religious Divide: Why Religion Seems to Be Thriving in the United States and Waning in Europe Steven Pfaff		24
2 Value Change in Europe and North America: Convergence or Something Else? Christopher Cochrane, Neil Nevitte, and Stephen White		53
3 On Different Planets: News Media in the United States and Europe Donald Morrison		80
4 One Ring to Bind Them All: American Power and Neoliberal Capitalism Mark Blyth		109
5 Spreading the Word: The Diffusion of American Conservatism in Europe and Beyond Steven Teles and Daniel A. Kenney		136
6 Work, Welfare, and Wanderlust: Immigration and Integration in Europe and North America Randall Hansen		170
7 Lost in Translation: The Transatlantic Divide over Diplomacy Daniel W. Drezner		192

8	The Atlantic Divide in Historical Perspective: A View from Europe Laurent Cohen-Tanugi	21:1
	Index	225