

Preventing Unemployment in Europe

A New Framework for Labour Market Policy

Edited by

Paul Klemmer and Rudiger Wink

Ruhr Research Institute for Regional and Innovation Policy, Germany

Edward Elgar

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of contributors	vii
1. Preventing unemployment in Europe - an introductory overview Paul Klemmer and Riidiger Wink	1
PART ONE: PREVENTIVE LABOUR MARKET POLICY IN A CHANGING ENVIRONMENT
2. The importance of labour market flexibility in the location decisions of international corporations Markus Scheuer	13
3. International mobility of the highly skilled: 'Brain Gain', 'Brain Drain' or 'Brain Exchange'? Thomas Straubhaar	31
4. Further education in Europe - welcome to the market economy? Dorothee Becker-Soest and Riidiger Wink	47
5. 'How long does it take to turn around a tanker?' - Worker displacement and preventive labour market policy in Germany Matthias Knuth	65
PART TWO: NATIONAL EXPERIENCE WITH PREVENTIVE LABOUR MARKET POLICY STRATEGIES
6. Corporatist vs. market bargaining processes and foreign investment location: Evidence from Germany and the UK Philip Raines	91

7. Danish labour market policy since 1994 - the new 'Columbus Egg' of labour market regulation? Henning Jergensen	108
8. Cooperative labour market policy in Eastern Germany ReinhardPenz	137
9. The territorial dimension of modern industry and the scope of regional industrial and labour market policies Riccardo Cappellin andLuigi Orsenigo	166
PART THREE: PERSPECTIVES WITH REGARD TO EUROPEAN LEARNING PROCESSES
10. From regional policy towards preventive labour market policy? - A multi-level governance perspective on the case of Denmark Henrik Halkier	191
11. European labour market policy and national regimes of implementation Josef Schmid and Christian Roth	210
12. Institutional learning of preventive labour market policy - an evolutionary approach Paul Klemmer, Kerstin Baumgart, Dorothee Becker-Soest and Riidiger Wink	232
Index	253