

Urban Design and the British Urban Renaissance

Edited by John Punter

R Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

LONDON AND NEW YORK

C,

Contents

List of plates
List of figures
List of tables
List of contributors
Preface
Acknowledgments
Common acronyms

1 An introduction to the British urban renaissance

JOHN PUNTER

The English 'Core Cities': an introduction

2 Birmingham: translating ambition into quality

JOE HOLYOAK

3 Manchester: making it happen

MICHAEL HEBBERT

4 Leeds: shaping change and guiding success

RACHAEL UNSWORTH AND LINDSAY SMALES

5 Sheffield: a miserable disappointment no more?

PHILIP BOOTH

6 Liverpool 2008: Liverpool's Vision and the decade of cranes

MIKE BIDDULPH

7 Bristol: not a design-led urban renaissance

HENRY SHAFTOE AND ANDREW TALLON

8 Newcastle upon Tyne: in search of a post-industrial direction

ALI MADANIPOUR

vi Contents

9	Nottingham: 'a consistent and integrated approach to urban design'	148
	TIM HEATH
	London and the Thames Gateway: an introduction	165
10	Central London: intensity, excess and success in the context of a world city	169
	MARION ROBERTS AND TONY LLOYD JONES
11	King's Cross: renaissance for whom?	189
	MICHAEL EDWARDS
12	The Isle of Dogs: thirty-five years of regeneration but have we seen a renaissance?	206
	MATTHEW CARMONA
13	The Thames Gateway: alive and well?	224
	LORA NICOLAOU AND SARAH CHAPLIN
	The 'Celtic Capitals': an introduction	241
14	Edinburgh: catching up with the contemporary	245
	LESLIE FORSYTH AND MARILYN HIGGINS
15	Glasgow: renaissance on the Clyde?	262
	STEVE TIESDELL
	Wales: an introduction	281
16	Cardiff: a renaissance city 'with a reputation for imaginative architecture and iconic urban design?'	283
	JOHN PUNTER
	Northern Ireland: an introduction	303
17	Belfast: rebranding the 'Renaissance City': from 'the Troubles' to Titanic Quarter®	305
	WILLIAM J. V. NEILL
	Conclusions	323
18	Reflecting on urban design achievements in a decade of urban renaissance	325
	JOHN PUNTER
	Selected bibliography and references	353
	Index	367