

Carl Menger and the Evolution of Payments Systems

From Barter to Electronic Money

Edited by

Michael Latzer

Deputy Director, Research Unit for Institutional Change and European Integration, Austrian Academy of Sciences, Vienna

Stefan W. Schmitz

Research Fellow, Research Unit for Institutional Change and European Integration, Austrian Academy of Sciences, Vienna

Edward Elgar

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of Contributors	vii
List of Tables	viii
Introduction	1
Michael Latzer, Stefan W. Schmitz

PART I: CARL MENDER'S ARTICLE 'MONEY': FROM BARTER TO MONEY

1. Carl Menger's article 'Money' in the history of economic thought	11
Erich W. Streissler
1. Menger's main themes	11
2. The functions of money and the concepts of its value	17
3. The demand for money	19
4. The influence of Menger's monetary thought on later theory	21
2. Money	25
Carl Menger, Translated by Leland B. Yeager with Monika Streissler
I. The origin of generally used intermediaries of exchange	26
II. The controversy among economists and jurists over the nature of money and its distinctiveness as compared with other goods	35
III. The emergence of precious-metal money	39
IV. The perfecting of metallic money through coinage of the metals	41
V. The perfecting of the monetary and coinage system by government	45
VI. Money as a medium of unilateral and substitute transfers of wealth	49
VII. The 'function' of money as medium of payment (or settlement)	51
VIII. Money as a medium of hoarding, capital accumulation, and transfers of wealth in time and space	52
IX. Money as intermediary in capital transactions	54
X. Money as 'measure of price' (indicator of price)	55
XI. Money as standard of the exchange value of goods	58

XII. The concept of money as derived from its functions	74
XIII. Is legal tender part of the concept of money or is the latter merely perfected by legal tender?	77
XIV. The demand for money	83
Translator's Notes by Leland B. Yeager	108

PART II: PERSPECTIVES ON THE EVOLUTION OF ELECTRONIC MONEY

3. Carl Menger's 'Money' and the current neoclassical models of money	111
Stefan W. Schmitz
1. Search models, ;	113
2. Overlapping generations model	117
3. Spatial separation models	120
4. Current neoclassical models of money and Mengerian institutional analysis	123
5. Conclusion	127
4. Mengerian perspectives on the future of money	133
George A. Selgin, Lawrence H. White
1. Menger's project and ours	133
2. The rise and fall of monetary nationalism: retail payments	134
3. Bank reserves, interbank settlement and wholesale payments	143
4. Implications for monetary policy	147
5. Whither fiat money?	151
5. The institutional character of electronic money schemes: redeemability and the unit of account	159
Stefan W. Schmitz
1. Currency competition: the literature	160
2. Institutional change in the payments system: redeemability and the unit of account	170
3. Conclusion	176

Index	185
--------------	-----