

Deregulation and its Discontents

Rewriting the Rules in Asia

Edited by

M. Ramesh

National University of Singapore

Michael Howlett

Simon Fraser University, Canada

c

Edward Elgar

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of figures	vii
List of tables	viii
List of contributors	ix
Acknowledgements	xiv
1 Preface: the evolution of de/reregulation Michael Howlett and M. Ramesh	1
PART I INTRODUCTION: GOVERNANCE AND GLOBALIZATION
2 Governance crisis in Asia: developing a responsive regulation Anil Hira	13
3 Globalisation and national regulations: race to the bottom, top, and middle M. Ramesh	29
PART II DEREGULATION AND ITS DISCONTENTS: CASES IN EAST ASIAN REGULATORY REFORM
4 Power's promise: electricity reforms in Eastern Europe and Central Asia J. A. Lampietti, S. G. Banerjee, J. Ebinger, M. Shkaratan, G. Sargsyan, I. Klytchnikova and K. Van den Berg	49
5 Privatization and regulation of competition in the electricity sector Lucas A. Skoufa	80
6 Independent power producers in Indonesia and the Philippines Xun Wu and Priyambudi Sulistiyanto	109
7 Power sector deregulation and the environment: evidence from the Philippines and Thailand Jessie L. Todoc	124
8 Governance and regulation of provident and pension funds in Asia Mukul G. Asher and Amarendu Nandy	151
9 Regulation and deregulation of the stock market in India Ashima Goyal	168

PART III POLICY DESIGN PRINCIPLES FOR REGULATORY REFORM

10	Design principles for smart regulations Neil Gunningham and Darren Sinclair	195
11	Universal service, and the transition from state control to state-monitored competition Jon M. Peha	212
12	Conclusion: the de/reregulatory cycle: learning and spill-over effects in regulatory policy-making Michael Howlett	228
	Index	237