

Human Rights and Structural Adjustment

M. Rodwan Abouharb
and
David Cingranelli

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of figures	page ix
List of tables	x
Acknowledgments	xiii

Part I: The argument .1

- 1 Structural adjustment programs undermine human rights 3
- 2 Respect for human rights promotes economic development ; 29
- 3 Theoretical linkages between structural adjustment and repression 50

Part II: Estimating the human rights effects of structural adjustment 79

- 4 Methods 81
- 5 Determinants of structural adjustment lending 105

Part III: Findings 133

- 6 Economic and social rights 135
- 7 Civil conflict: demonstrations, riots, and rebellion 150
- 8 Torture, murder, disappearance, and political imprisonment 170
- 9 Worker rights , 183
- 10 Democracy and civil liberties 203

Part IV: Conclusion		225
11 A human rights-based approach to economic development	""-•... r	227
Bibliography		240
Author index		268
Subject index		271