

Capitalist China

' Strategies for a Revolutionized Economy

Jonathan R. Woetzel

John Wiley & Sons (Asia) Pte Ltd

Coiruters

Acknowledgments	xi
Foreword	xin
1 Why China is Changing	1
1.1 Moving to a Market Economy	2
China's investment-hungry economy	3
No turning back from reform	6
Raising the corporate game	11
1.2 China in the WTO: What Will Really Change?	14
The transformation an distribution and retail	15
Explosive growth in the Internet	16
Breaking through in financial services	17
Where change is less than meets the eye	19
Evolution, not revolution	24
2 The High-Tech Revolution	29
2.1 Taking China's Consumer Electronics Companies Global	30
The globalization imperative	30
Insufficient existing advantages	33
Leveraging globalization to win	35
2.2 Legend: Building a Computer Giant	40
2.3 Designing Success in Semiconductors	48
Significant investments planned	49
However, profits may be elusive	51
Design is China's strength	52
A Taiwan connection ⁷	55
2.4 Corning: Riding Rapid Growth and the High-Tech Boom	57
3 Trouble in the Heartland	65
3.1 A Tune-Up for China's Auto Industry	66
The competition is about to heat up	67
The need for an asset-light strategy	69
Making it happen	71
The outsourcing options	72
What's in it for Chinese automakers?	73

3.2	Remaking China's Giant Steel Industry	75
	A growing appetite for steel	75
	Consolidation: The first step	77
	Three winning strategies	78
3.3	China's Evolving Logistics Landscape	82
	Logistics services are elementary	83
	Strong forces are reshaping the market	87
	Changes under way not for the faint-hearted	91
3.4	Orient Overseas: Winning in Asian Shipping	95
4	Energizing Energy	103
4.1	The Great Gas Game	104
	A big new industry	104
	But risks are immense	106
	Needed: A new regulatory framework	109
	Rewards to the early movers	111
4.2	BP: Investing with Energy	112
4.3	Reshaping Petrochemicals	120
	The petrochemicals dilemma	120
	Cost-cutting a first step	121
	New hubs will drive the industry	123
	Consolidation likely to ensue	124
4.4	BHPB: Building a Rock-Solid Business	128
4.5	Coalescing around Coal	136
	An inefficient giant	136
	Super-groups will go global	138
	Finding a profitable seam	140
5	Reviving Retail	147
5.1	Roadside Retail	148
	The market and site economics	149
	Making sites pay	150
5.2	LVMH: Defining Luxury	155
5.3	Saving China's Department Stores	161
	A traditional favorite under threat	161
	Consolidation likely to come	164
	Restoring profitability to the sector	167

6	Modernizing Services	175
	6.1 Managing Chinese Funds	176
	Getting rich is glorious	176
	But the system is flawed	178
	A day of reckoning at hand	J 79
	New business models to consider	183
	6.2 Portman Holdings: Building the Community	187
	6.3 Transforming the Media	194
^	Media traditionally a protected sector	195
	But now the market wants more	196
	Content will be king	199
	The winners are not yet decided	201
7	Success Factors in Investment	207
	7.1 Investing in Post^WTO China	208
	China as the world's investment choice	208
	Pursue first-mover advantage	211
	Frame innovative strategies	212
	Play to win, not play to play	215
	Invest in people	217
	7.2 Restructuring Alliances	219
	Differentiate between partners and friends	221
	Plan for shifts in the power balance over time	222
	Fit the organization to the balance	223
	Negotiate from the top	225
8	A Closing Word	229
	Index	235