

THE CHANGE
MASTERS

ROSABETH MOSS KANTER

Contents

Acknowledgments 7

PART ONE

THE NEED FOR
AN AMERICAN CORPORATE RENAISSANCE 15

1. Introduction 17
2. Transformations in the American Corporate Environment,
1960s-1980s 37

PART TWO

WHY WE'RE IN TROUBLE:
THE QUIET SUFFOCATION
OF THE ENTREPRENEURIAL SPIRIT
IN SEGMENTALIST COMPANIES 67

3. Innovating Against the Grain: Ten Rules for Stifling Innovation 69
4. The Withering of the Grass Roots: The Fate of Employee
Innovations in an Indifferent Environment 102

PART THREE

PLACES WHERE INNOVATION FLOURISHES
—AND WHY 127

5. Cultures of Pride, Climates of Success: Incentives for Enterprise in High-Innovation Companies 129

6. Empowerment	156
7. Energizing the Grass Roots: Employee Involvement in Innovation and Change	180
PART FOUR
MANAGING IN THE INNOVATING ORGANIZATION: SKILLS FOR CHANGE MASTERS
	207
8. Power Skills in Use: Corporate Entrepreneurs in Action	209
9. Dilemmas of Participation	241
10. The Architecture of Culture and Strategy Change	278
PART FIVE
CAN AMERICA DO IT? REALIZING A CORPORATE RENAISSANCE
	307
11. Trying to Turn Around an American Archetype: The General Motors Story	309
12. Reawakening the Spirit of Enterprise: Toward an American Corporate Renaissance	352
Appendix: The Core Companies and Research Methods	371
Notes	394
Index	420