

THE OTHER HUNDRED YEARS WAR

Japan's bid for supremacy
1941-2041

Russell Braddon

COLLINS
8 Grafton Street, London W1
1983

CONTENTS

| | Page |
|---|-------------|
| Foreword | vii |
| 1. The Unknown Enemy | 9 |
| 2. Getting to Know Them | 20 |
| 3. The Sixteen Petalled Chrysanthemum | 30 |
| 4. 'I am the Only Man who Must Apologise to His Majesty' | 40 |
| 5. 'Do not Come Home Alive' | 51 |
| 6. Nippon Number One! ' | 62 |
| 7. 'This War Last One Hundred Years' | 67 |
| 8. 'We are not Barbarians' | 80 |
| 9. 'A Stepping Stone to the Future' | 89 |
| 10. 'An Unbearable Thing' | 97 |
| 11. 'The Emperor has Given his Decision' | 105 |
| 12. 'A Broadcast of the Greatest Importance' | 118 |
| 13. 'All you Men have Bright Futures' | 126 |
| 14. 'Torches Don't Dance' | 130 |
| 15. 'I am not concerned, with what may happen to me' | 134 |
| 16. The Tomb of the Seven Martyrs | 142 |
| 17. Bushido and Industry | 150 |
| 18. 'With Diligence and a Strong Spirit' | 162 |
| 19. 'Japan's international voice has been too small' | 175 |
| 20. Semantics | 181 |
| 21. Ethics and Morality | 190 |
| 22. American Ineptitude: Japanese Illogic | 203 |
| 23. 'For the Year 2000, there are Various Scenarios' | 212 |
| 24. 'A Shadow has Fallen over the Giant' | 230 |
| Acknowledgements | 243 |
| Bibliography | 245 |